Parrabah whale ferry launched

SeaLink Bruny Island welcomed the new Parrabah ferry into service on April 21.

Parrabah was welcomed to the SeaLink Bruny Island fleet at an official naming and traditional smoking ceremony at Kettering on April 21.

The South East Tasmanian Aboriginal Corporation (SETAC), the SeaLink Travel Group board and Group CEO Clint Feuerherdt were among the attendees at the event hosted by SeaLink Tasmania's General Manager Tania

Attendees heard the significant local Aboriginal story and meaning behind the name Parrabah, the South East Aboriginal language name for whale.

Reverend John Middleton of the Anglican Parish of the Channel and Cygnet also provided a Christian blessing of the vessel.

Locals and visitors to Bruny Island may have already voyaged on the new, Tasmanian built ferry, as the vessel commenced services in late March after successfully completing sea trials.

Parrabah was locally built by Richardson Devine Marine and is the second custom-built ferry to join the SeaLink Bruny Island fleet, after its sister vessel, Nairana, commenced services in February 2020.

SeaLink Travel Group CEO Clint Feuerherdt said they were proud to manufacture the vessel in Tasmania and showcase the local heritage of SETAC.

St Aloysius Catholic College Year 7 Student, Carmela Harris was announced as the winner of the SETAC whale dreaming creation of Bruny Island story artwork competition, with the artwork proudly on display

Mr Feurherdt said Parrabah's name and Carmela's artwork highlight SeaLink's commitment to showcasing the natural surrounds and championing the traditional communities in which the vessel operates.

"Parrabah and Nairana are part of SeaLink's commitment to deliver two brand new locally-built vessels to the Bruny Island service," Mr Feurherdt

"We passionately believe in giving back to the communities we operate in; it is what makes SeaLink stand apart and makes us proudly Australian.

"We have a history of genuinely collaborating with local communities to deliver services and operate vessels that provide safe, reliable and convenient transport.'

Roger Janes, of Richardson Devine Marine, said the 45 metre, aluminium ferry is lightweight, "extremely fuel efficient" and has been delivered on time, despite COVID-19 impacting overseas-supplied components.

"Nairana and Parrabah are the first of their type in the Southern Hemisphere and are testament to SeaLink's commitment to innovate and develop a low fuel burn solution for this important transport link," said Mr

"Their unique design also gives them impressive manoeuvrability, allowing the skilled SeaLink masters to achieve highly efficient turn-around times at

ANZAC Day services return

ANZAC Day services were celebrated across Kingborough on Sunday, April 25, after the Dawn Services were cancelled in 2020 due to COVID-19 restrictions.

The Kingston Beach RSL Club Sub-branch invited the community to the 6.30am Dawn Service and wreath laying ceremony at Kingston Beach Esplanade, followed by a march for the service and ex-service people in attendance.

The Sub-branch also encouraged people unable to attend to stand at the foot of their driveways with a candle or lamp to remember the fallen as part of the Light the Dawn movement, which was how the local Kingborough community honoured ANZAC Day in 2020 due to the cancellation of local services

Services at Kingston Beach were led by MC Peter Gee, with Reverend Peter Ball and Father Michael Delany.

Year 10 student Felicity Jackson from Southern Christian College was invited to be the guest speaker as part of the morning's events.

A large number of community members and organisations laid wreathes and floral tributes at the services, including the Kingston Beach RSL branch, Sub-branch and Women's Auxiliary, the Navy, Army and Airforce, the Allied forces, Army and Navy cadets, Kingston Legacy Widows, the World War I nurses, Kingborough Council, government representatives and politicians, Tas Police, the Rotary Club of Kingston, Kingston Beach Surf Life Saving Club, Boronia Girl Guides, Kingston Scouts and many local schools.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Council's achievements are altogether apolitical

As I read Dean Winter's full-page advert in the April 20 edition of the Kingborough Chronicle, it heavily implies that the Labor Party 'delivered' all the items on his list.

However, the items were 'delivered' by Kingborough's councillors together with Mr Winter as mayor.

Last time I looked, Kingborough Council was not run by Labor or any other political party and should be mainly independent of any political interference.

Mr Winter has not delivered the items on the list by himself and should not be implying that he has.

Health services lie

Dear Editor.

It is a bare-faced lie that there are no health services at the new health centre in Kingston as claimed by Labor candidate Winter.

I have been having appointments there every single month with Kingston Community Health Centre nurses for almost three years and every time I visit, there are other patients being attended to as well.

Winter is a first term Mayor of Kingborough.

He should be prevented from rejoining the council as Mayor if he loses the election as should Cordover for the

These people are all about themselves and their career paths with Labor and the Greens and could not care less about the rate payers and other voters who put them there in the first place and pay their generous salary packages.

Living independently in Kingston

National Disability Insurance Scheme (NDIS) participant, Paul Castles is now living the life he chooses after receiving Specialist Disability Accommodation (SDA) funding, to help him move from the nursing home he was living in to Supported Independent Living (SIL) in Kingston.

Paul, 58, who has Down syndrome, was placed in a Tasmanian nursing home, the only aged care facility able to take him and his ageing mother, Lorna, after his dad passed away and they could no longer manage living in their Devonport home.

Paul's brother, Gerard said he could see Lorna and Paul were having difficulty managing their day-to-day lives so he started looking for an aged care facility who would care for them both.

"There was only one nursing home willing to take care of Paul and mum together," said Gerard.

"It was a great facility.

"It gave them adjoining rooms and they really got a new

"It was the only facility that would guarantee us Paul could still live there if mum did pass away."

Five years later, and with Lorna about to turn 101 years of age, Gerard thought it was time to support Paul to leave the nursing home so he could start living his own life.

"Paul's had an amazing rich life in Devonport, but it gradually diminished as he spent more time in aged care, so I put the wheels in motion to get him moved out so he could re-join his community," said Gerard.

"I did know a little bit about the NDIS.

"I was a board member at Headway, who support people with acquired brain injuries, and I was fortunate to reconnect with its former CEO, Darren, who had become an NDIS Support Coordinator.

"Darren is fantastic.

"I think with the NDIS most people don't know what they can ask for, and people who have a sense of what they can ask for, don't know how to ask for it," continued Gerard.

"Darren helped us navigate the process.

"I was really active in engaging with Darren and building a good network of people around Paul, and asking them how they can help Paul lead the life he could live.

"So together we found disability support provider, Able

"It was incredible to have a great team to guide us

"Paul's now living in a brand-new home, in Kingston, where I live.

"He is sharing with Sean, his housemate, and he just loves it. "We've been able to set up one-on-one supports while we gradually reintegrate him back into the community.

"Over time Paul had become very isolated," comment-

"He wouldn't go out and he's been a bit nervous about things, so we developed a six to 12-month plan to gradually reintroduce him back into his community to lessen

"We've started slow, but his world is starting to open up." Gerard said since Paul has been living out of the nursing home he's noticed a lot of positive changes in his younger brother.

"He left the nursing home and he's never looked back," said Gerard.

"Now he's happy, he is communicating more and he's been incredibly flexible.

"We were all a bit nervous about how this move would pan out, but he's been better than anyone had expected.' Gerard said about three years ago Paul stopped trav-

"No one knew why," said Gerard.

"He just wouldn't leave the nursing home.

He wouldn't travel to Hobart for family gatherings or anything like that so now we've started him off with small goals.

"We've managed to get him back in the car to go on a few short trips.

"Paul loves animals, and there's lots of wallabies around Kingston so his support worker has been taking him out for small drives at night to see them.

"He gets so excited.

"He just loves it.

"What we are working towards is gradually getting him moving again so he can visit the family in Hobart and do all the activities he used to do: special Olympics, going to the footy and going to the trots to watch his cousin's horses race, so that's our medium-term goal."

Gerard said one-on-one support has been crucial in helping Paul to regain his independence.

"Back in the nursing home, Paul wasn't sick and he was quiet so he didn't get much contact," Gerard said. "Whereas now he's got a plan, he's got goals and peo-

"Everything is working the way it's supposed to.

"It's also given us back time.

"It's allowed me to be Paul's big brother again and not

COMMENT COLUMN

with Member for Nelson, Meg Webb MLC

Do elections bring out the worst in politics?

It's such a shame that at the time we are asked to choose our political representatives, they often provide us with a poor impression of their values and fitness for office.

Whether it is bickering and factional fights within parties, nasty secrets emerging from people's social media histories, or just the aggressive negativity and sniping that becomes the default setting of our adversarial, two-party dominated political culture, it's enough to make voters pray for it all to be over as quickly as possible.

A particular bug bear of mine is when the two major parties spend so much time trying to scare and bully the Tasmanian voters into a majority government outcome.

Of course, each party would like to govern in majority. With a majority it's easier for them to do what they want and push their own ideological agendas.

But it doesn't always result in good policy, good legislation or the best interests of the whole community being delivered.

A minority government means a government that has to work hard, be reasonable, put aside some of the more extreme ideological policies and negotiate.

I think most Tasmanians would like to see their State

Government doing just that; working hard to deliver reasonable, negotiated outcomes.

A minority government is likely to be a government that is more open, transparent and accountable.

It's much harder to keep secrets, withhold information and prevent access when you don't have absolute

Minority governments are a very normal part of many parliamentary democracies around the world.

They are effective, efficient and generally very productive.

If the Tasmanian voters deliver a minority government at this state election, then the major parties should respect the views of the community and work with that

There's an arrogance in any political party insisting that it won't respect the will of the Tasmanian people if an election delivers a diverse, non-majority parliament.

It's not the job of political parties to dictate to Tasmanians what form of government they must choose; it's the voters' choice who they want as their parliamentary representatives.

Once chosen, it's the job of all those elected to make that work in the best interests of the community.

Digital doorknockers needed for Salvos Red Shield Appeal

The Salvation Army's annual Red Shield Appeal is on in May, and the organisation is calling on the Kingborough community to volunteer, as they seek to recruit 10,000 Digital Doorknockers across the country.

The Salvos are also in need of 20,000 in-person volunteers to collect in the community during this year's appeal

The Salvation Army note that all funds raised locally will stay in the local community.

Kingborough residents are being encouraged to become Digital Doorknockers by creating an online fundraising page to raise money for their

Now in its 56th year, in 2021 the Red Shield Appeal aims to raise $32 million across Australia, including $200,000 in Tasmania, via door knocking, shopping centre stands and events, to fund over 2000 centres and services across the

After the devastating impact of COVID-19 in 2020, The Salvos report they are seeing some of the greatest need in their history, making this year's appeal vitally important.

"The communities of Kingborough and the Huon Valley have always faithfully backed The Salvos, and this year we need people to volunteer and raise funds to ensure that we can continue the work in the community for years to come," said Captain Steven Haworth.

"Last year, through the generous support of the community during the Red Shield Appeal, we were able to support a range of local programs including our food relief program and our family violence refuge".

Money raised locally this year will help enable assistance with food and utility bills, advocacy, support for people struggling with alcohol or other drugs, The Salvos' community drop-in centre, homelessness, youth and children's work, volunteering, and emergency services.

According to The Salvation Army Australia Annual Report 2019-20, in 2020 The Salvos provided over one million occasions of care to those in need across Australia, supported more than 40,000 people experiencing homelessness, distributed 1.5 million meals through homelessness services, gave over 43,000 occasions of care to those experiencing family and domestic violence, and distributed almost $100 million worth of financial assistance to people doing it tough.

"The Salvos cannot do what we do without the generosity of the public in our community," said Captain Haworth.

"If you have the means, please consider donating to the Red Shield Appeal or become a volunteer this year.

"Your generosity and support will help us to leave no one in need."

To become a Digital Doorknocker, visit https://digitaldoorknock.salvationarmy.org.au/t/ki ngborough-huon-salvos, create your personalised page and share it with your family, friends and fellow community members.

To volunteer in-person, contact your local Salvos on (03) 6229 8058.

To donate to The Salvation Army's Red Shield Appeal, or if in need support from The Salvos, visit salvationarmy.org.au or call 13 SALVOS.

Donations are also welcomed at Salvos Stores.

The Salvation Army's Captain Steven Haworth is seeking Digital Doorknockers and in-person volunteers around Kingborough to assist with this year's Red Shield Appeal, to be held in May. All funds raised locally will stay in the local community. (PS)

At a crossroads in Margate and Snug

Labor candidate for Franklin, Dean Winter said the time has come for safer crossings of the Channel Highway at Snug and Margate.

In correspondence with the Kingborough Chronicle on April 16, Dean Winter said he has secured a $50,000 commitment from Labor to commence work to identify safer road crossing solutions at Margate and Snug, if

"One of the very frequent requests I have had from both Snug and Margate residents is that crossing the highway can be dangerous," Mr Winter said.

"It's just one of the many requests I get where I have to defer to our State Government for action, because the Channel Highway is a state road.

"The solutions suggested during that time have been an overpass or underpass in each town.

"The $50,000 investment would be to commence work to identify locations and the type of crossings.

"During morning peak times, commuters from the southern Channel are queuing up while school children cross the road.

"Having an overpass or underpass at Margate would also allow the school to put its crossing guard on duty at Van Morey Road, improving safety there.

On April 22, Labor announced a number of inititives to relieve congestion around the Fork in the Road roundabout, the Kingston bypass and the Southern Outlet intersection with Davey/Macquarie Street in Hobart.

Kingborough Council's Acting Mayor, Jo Westwood has welcomed election commitments from the Labor and Liberal parties aimed at easing traffic congestion and improving pedestrian access in the municipality.

Tasmanian Liberals have said they intend to install pedestrian crossings at Margate and Snug, extend the Snug to Margate shared pathway through to Huntingfield and address traffic congestion at the Algona Road roundabout and the Kingston bypass if reelected on May 1.

In a media release on April 19, Acting Mayor Westwood said traffic congestion has been an issue regularly raised by Kingborough residents and a reduction in congestion would be a welcome relief.

"Traffic congestion is a major cause of angst, resulting from a rapidly growing population and infrastructure that is struggling to keep pace," Acting Mayor Westwood said. "Funding to reduce congestion can't come soon enough and improving linkages for cyclists and pedestrians is definitely part of the solution. "It becomes increasingly more difficult to cross the Channel Highway in Margate and Snug, especially with young children in tow."

Acting Mayor Westwood said she would seek further details on the proposed projects, pending the outcome

Safer crossings for Margate and Snug on the Channel Highway are part of election commitments from both Labor and Liberal. Disability Support Worker of five years Michelle Bath says it's very important as Margate has an ageing population and the landscape is flat, therefore it is an attractive place for people to walk. Michelle regularly supports Anneli Valkama, a 26-year-old with multiple disabilities who attends respite. (PS)

Karamu control at Browns River

Kingborough Council is now working in partnership with private landholders and the State Government to control the highly invasive weed karamu, Coprosma robusta, along Browns River.

Council would like to hear from landowners along Browns River in relation to the eradication of this declared weed under the Tasmanian Weed Management Act 1999.

The karamu shrub or tree is native to New Zealand and is currently only growing in a few places in Tasmania, however if left unchecked karamu will take over the river, clogging the waterway and making access to the river almost impossible.

The Fern Tree Bushcare group have been controlling karamu at the top of the Browns River catchment, with support from the City of Hobart.

Kingborough Council is now continuing to support this work downstream, along the stretch of the Browns River riparian area that reaches to the River Derwent

According to the Tasmanian Department of Primary

Industries, Parks, Water and Environment, karamu is able to invade relatively undisturbed native vegetation, particularly damp and wet eucalypt forest.

Karamu forms dense thickets and can eventually shade out native understorey species as it grows to around six metres

The leaves are opposite, large, thick and glossy, with Karamu flowers are small, greenish and grow in clusters. The fruit is a fleshy berry, green initially before maturing to orange-red over late summer.

Anyone finding a plant that could be karamu is asked to contact Biosecurity Tasmania on 6165 3777 to report the location.

For further information regarding the Browns River Karamu Control Project call Kingborough Council on (03) 6211 8255 or email kc@kingborough.tas.gov.au Removing one weed today will save removing a whole river of them a few years from now.

Federation homestead and farmstay

This wonderful little farm offers everything needed to create the perfect island lifestyle.

From the historic, renovated homestead and large apple shed to the registered commercial kitchen, successful accommodation business and roadside farmgate stall, Willow Bend Farm offers owners the ideal package with both income and lifestyle.

Set on the edge of Lunawanna in a sheltered valley, with arguably some of the best soil and fresh water on the island, Willow Bend Farm is one of a kind.

The 100 year-old homestead was built by one of South Bruny's pioneer Conley families, who cut timber and planted orchards on the fertile slopes beneath Mt Mangana.

The current owners have recently finished a complete renovation, inside and out, with care and style and in keeping with the homestead's period and character.

Entry to the house is via a covered veranda, with space for boots and coats.

The bright country kitchen with ceiling skylight has a huge electric range, which was the commercial oven of the Geeveston Bakery/Cafe.

A newly-installed Nectre baker's oven is also a feature of the spacious and light-filled kitchen.

Enjoy farmhouse cooking moments baking your own homemade loaves and goods while soaking up the warmth and atmosphere of the wood-fired stove and oven.

From the kitchen, three bedrooms open off the highceilinged hallway, all with attractive views into the longestablished gardens.

In the sunny sitting room adjoining the kitchen, a large double-glazed picture window looks out across the dam, taking in farm and mountain views.

A newly installed wood combustion fire in this room extends warmth and ambience throughout the home.

A third open fireplace in the large lounge/dining area provides atmosphere for long lunches and family gatherings, with ample light and garden views from the four picture windows surrounding the room.

A delightful bathroom, like the rest of the home, has been recently renovated with flair and attention to detail and has a large picture window looking into the back garden.

The front verandahs overlook the productive vegetable gardens, which include a series of raised beds fenced from wildlife, as well as tunnel greenhouses and fruit trees.

The huge farm shed has undercover parking, animal stalls, an expansive workshop, cool-room and plenty of storage space.

The farm has two spring-fed dams with perennial springs and a third dam near the cottage.

The pastures are well-established, making use of the property's rich soil and high rainfall. Fencing is of a high standard throughout.

A test bore has proven the existence of a good supply

The range of property improvements include a fullyfenced boundary to keep out the abundant wildlife, electric lines and paddock shelters providing security for horses or other sensitive livestock.

Other upgrades include tanks and pressure system, new hot water systems, guttering and downpipes, new electrical work, flooring, advanced trees, garden drains and a new driveway. Separate from the house and screened for privacy by plantings and fencing is a charming self-contained onebedroom cottage, with its own lounge room, sun deck, registered commercial kitchen, laundry and bathroom. The council-approved holiday accommodation has been operated as a successful farmstay since early 2018, with nearly 200 outstanding reviews from guests and a 4.98 Airbnb star rating.

The cottage is currently booked at over $200 per night in all seasons.

A final unique feature is a roadside stall near the corner of Cloudy Bay Road, where the owners sell garden produce, sourdough bread and pre-prepared meals from the commercial kitchen, with solid weekly earnings via an honour system by cash or PayPal.

Lunawanna is a friendly country community, recently enhanced by some special features, including a cafe with excellent coffee and vegan pies, the Bruny Island Food Truck with takeaways on Friday evenings and the fortnightly Lunawanna Market at the Memorial Hall.

There are beaches, a jetty and a boat ramp nearby, with Cloudy Bay down the road and the township of Alonnah is a short drive away.

With its combination of appealing features, this meticulously-renovated home, productive hobby farm and solid tourism business is the complete package.

A very special property indeed.

Tasmania's forest stories told on film

A new DVD is being released covering the history of the southern Tasmanian forest industry, including the Heather and Casey families.

Produced and researched by Garry Kerr, the DVD is called Stories From Tasmania's Southern Forests, and is largely based on the memories of two men who worked in sawmills and logging in the forest.

George Heather's father operated a sawmill at Cockle Creek in the 1940's.

Due to shortage of manpower during the war the family worked the mill, including the father and mother, three teenage daughters and George the son.

Garry also interviewed one of the daughters, Jean Burgess (nee Heather), back in 2002 about felling trees and the other work involved.

The other person interviewed was John Casey of Dover, who worked in the old Raminea steam sawmill and the bus

Five other local identities have smaller cameo roles including Clyde Mackay, who skippered the sailing ketch May Queen, bringing the timber to Hobart.

Garry's previous history works include two books The Tasmanian Trading Ketch and The Huon Pine Story, and several documentary videos since 2002 including Trading Out of Hobart, Wooden Ships and Stockmen, Two Men in a Punt, The Piner's Archive, Trading out of Stanley, Crayfishing Around Tasmania and Abalone Diving Tasmania.

The DVD will be available from Fullers Bookshop Hobart, Geeveston Visitors Centre and Tahune Air Walk. Many of the families' descendants featured in Garry's latest documentary are now living in Kingston, Blackmans Bay and the Channel area, as well as Dover and the Huon Valley.

Pellet fires the sustainable and effective heating solution

How did you go during last winter, did you make the right choice in heating?

Traditionally in Tasmania, the more popular choices have been heat pumps, also known as reverse cycle air-conditioning, or the traditional wood heater. In recent years, another player in the heating stakes has emerged, merging consistent and pleasant heat with an eco-friendly angle.

Pellet fires are becoming more popular by the year, and there are many reasons why.

Pellet fires utilise recycled timber waste sawdust as

Pellets, when burned, create a consistent heat akin to a wood or gas heater retaining the pleasant feel that comes from combustion heating but retains the convenience of a push button, thermostat-controlled

They are seen as one of the more environmentally friendly approaches to providing constant heat during the cooler periods due to this fuel source, as sawdust waste traditionally ends up in landfill.

Their popularity has only increased in recent years as a result, along with their reliability during the colder months, and increasing competition in the industry. Rob Douglas, Managing Director of Pellet Fires Tasmania, is well-aware of the heightened interest in pellet fires in recent times.

"The most common reason for buying a pellet fire is for those who appreciate the aesthetics, but don't want the additional work that comes with maintaining

"It's the emotional aesthetics; you can't have a candlelit dinner in front of a heat pump."

On top of the emotional appeal of a pellet fire furnace, is the incredible efficiency, which directly translates into huge savings when compared to other forms of heating.

Pellet fuel is also much cheaper than traditional firewood, costing less to run than at the current market rate of $200 per tonne of firewood.

This is set to decrease even further in the future, with heightened interest in the pellet fire industry opening the marketplace up to new competitors.

New suppliers of pellet fuel have emerged, driving the price of the renewable source down by 20 per cent this year alone.

"The market is maturing," said Rob on what the new suppliers of pellet fuel have done for the industry here in Tasmania.

"The added competition is creating a healthy product, and the industry really is poised to grow.

When you next think about heating, consider Pellet Fires Tasmania before making your final choice.

Twins share 90th birthday

On Saturday, April 17, Kingston resident Geoff Mundy and his twin sister celebrated a milestone 90th birthday.

Geoff and his sister Audrey Knight (nee Mundy) were born on the Tasman Peninsula and moved to Southport when they were 15.

Geoff's son Noel Mundy shared some of the highlights of his father and aunt's 90 years in the southern Tasmanian communities.

"The family bought an orchard and dairy farm," said Noel. "Dad farmed that property with his father and brother until they sold it in 1975.

"Dad was involved in a number of community activities through sport, football and cricket, school leadership and local church.

"Dad and mum (deceased last year) moved to Kingston 25 years ago.

"Dad has an amazing veggie and fruit garden where I'm sure he grows enough to feed half of Kingston," Noel said. "Audrey lived in various towns around the Esperance area and her first job was as the leader of the Bethany boys home that had commenced in Dover.

"She now lives in Queensland to be near her immediate family

"It is a great achievement for twins who grew up in some challenging times to reach 90 and still be in good health."

The twins celebrated with family by enjoying a meal out in Blackmans Bay on Saturday.

KINGBOROUGH COOK

Kingborough Cook, Kirsten Bacon, has come up with a delicious idea for Mothers' Day dinner.

Kirsten's slow cooked Pakistani lamb with yoghurt meal is sure to warm hearts and homes.

"This little beauty was given to me by a friend of mine, so credit to her as it is simply one of the easiest most delicious braises you can make," said Kirsten.

"Anyone can do this and it requires little effort and preparation time.

"Also perfect for the cold months, freezes fantastically

Pakistani lamb with yoghurt

Ingredients:

- 1kg lamb shoulder or leg, trimmed and cut into large
- 1 cup thick plain yoghurt
- 1 cup chopped tomato, or a tin of chopped tomatoes
- 2-10 fresh red chilli, chopped with or without seeds, to your liking
- 2 large onions, chopped
- 2 large Dutch cream or pinkeye potatoes, diced
- Small piece of fresh ginger, chopped or grated
- 2 tsp ground turmeric
- 1 tsp salt
- · 4 cloves garlic, sliced
- 2 tbs coriander seeds

and perfect for that big family meal.

"If you prefer a smoother sauce, blend in a food processor then pour over the meat before cooking.

"This dish can be cooked in a slow cooker, however I prefer an oven as it gives a nice caramel to the braise.

Kirsten suggests handmade flatbread as the perfect accompaniment to this dish, and her video of the process of making flatbread dough is available online.

- 40g ghee or butter
- 1/2 cup chopped coriander stems and leaves
- 1/2 cup chopped parsley stems and leaves

Method:

- 1. Pre-heat oven to 150 degrees celsius.
- 2. Place the diced lamb in a large casserole dish with the potatoes, yoghurt, tomato, chilli, onions, ginger, turmeric and salt.
- 3. Stir well, cover with a tight-fitting lid and place in the oven for two and a half hours.
- 4. Check for tenderness and seasoning.
- 5. Lightly pan fry the garlic and coriander seeds in the ghee or butter until fragrant, then stir into the casserole.
- 6. Scatter with the herbs just before serving with steamed rice.

Tigers take home Fred House Trophy

A memorial was held before the Seniors' TSL game in honour of Anzac Day on Sunday, April 25.

Three games were played between the Kingborough Tigers and the Glenorchy Magpies at the Twin Ovals for the Fred House Perpetual Trophy, as is the tradition each year.

Fred House was a member of the Navy and the last surviving member of the HMAS Sydney, which was sunk during a naval battle in 1941.

The Tigers and Magpies play for the trophy, this year presented by Mr House's great nephew Garry Silk, as Mr House had links to both the Glenorchy RSL and the Kingston Beach RSL.

In the Seniors, the Tigers got away to a great start with a goal within the first minute from Will Campbell, soon followed with another by Riley Ashlin.

The Tigers completely dominated the first three quarters before the Pies had a bit of a resurgence in the last quarter.

It wasn't enough to close the gap through and the Tigers (10.12.72) defeated the Pies (6.12.48) to regain the Fred House Trophy.

Goal scorers for the Tigers were: Tyler Carter 3, E. Cole 2, Cooper Sawdy 1, Sam Duigan 1, Will Campbell 1, Luke Graham 1 and Riley Ashlin 1.

Tyler Carter is currently third on the TSL Seniors goal scorers list, with eight goals for the season.

Best players for the Tigers were named as Elijah Reardon, Lachie Clifford, Marcus Gardner, Lachlan. Gadomski, E. Cole and Riley Ashlin.

Elijah Reardon was awarded the Most Courageous Medal for his outstanding pay during the match.

The win has placed the Tigers second on the competition ladder, only behind Launceston in percentage. In the Development League match, Glenorchy (10.12.72) defeated the Tigers (6.6.42).

The Tigers women played their first SFLW round against the Glenorchy Pies and were decimated by their opponents, 0.1.1 to 15.10.100.
