Support for Cr Grace

Dear Editor,

I am most distressed that a Labor faction in the Kingborough Council appears to be leading a public and press campaign to destroy Cr David Grace.

I am personally upset at the Mercury and other press outlets' refusal to print material that I have responsibly, independently sent to the Mercury against the campaign.

Cr Grace negotiated the development of Rainbow Communities Tasmania Inc. Coming out Proud Program with the Local Government Association.

Cr Grace volunteered his services because he wanted to represent some of the gay young people in his extended family.

Julian Punch AM
Rainbow Communities Tas Inc

Because Cr Grace has so publicly faced a complaint of sexism before the Code of Conduct Panel we wish as an organisation to assure the ratepayers in Kingborough that he has played a significant role for our communities without any sign of prejudice or discrimination.

To the contrary, he has played a significant role in the LGBTI Cultural Awareness Training our organisation provides to many mainstream organisations.

My partner and I, along with other Kingborough ratepayers, are at the point of cancelling our Mercury account and mounting a complaint to the Australian Press Council.

Kingborough Council is not working for ratepayers, it is mesmerised by this Labor faction campaign.

Undervalued carers

Dear Editor,

I'm really, really annoyed that a wonderful group of volunteers have, for years, been overlooked.

Our undervalued wildlife carers.

There are many within the Kingborough area. Never acknowledged, many are working 24/7, sometimes feeding orphaned or injured critters on a two-hourly cycle, daily.

This can continue for weeks.

They also deal with horrendous injuries, cat attacks, road kills with pouched joeys at risk that need rescuing etc. It's not always about people.

These carers also deserve the respect and admiration that volunteers who work with people are given.

Tell Tasmania's story

Libraries Tasmania is inviting all Tasmanians to be the curators of a crowd-sourced exhibition called 91 Stories, designed to highlight the cultural items within the collections of the State Library, the Tasmanian Archives, and the Allport Library and Museum of Fine Arts collections.

These cultural institutions hold a wealth of stories, including unique historical objects, rare and mysterious artefacts, and documents of memorable events and the personal lives of past Tasmanians.

Libraries Tasmania said stories make people who they are today and while the stories of many of the objects and items held in their collection are well told and well known, many are still untold.

Libraries Tasmania is seeking to change this, with the assistance of the community, in its 91 Stories exhibition.

Tasmanians are invited to come forward and express which items and objects from the cultural collections matter to them.

For more information and to submit a 91 Stories entry, go to: <http://libraries.tas.gov.au/91stories>

Submissions are open until May 31.

Regional recovery committees

COVID-19 has had a significant impact on the Kingborough community, including on social and economic wellbeing.

The State Government is implementing immediate and short-term relief and recovery measures and initiatives to support the state's longer-term recovery from the pandemic.

Coordinating and supporting state-level recovery measures is important, but enabling regional recovery, through community-led, placed-based approaches that respond to the needs within each area of the state is also crucial to ensure the best outcomes for the Tasmanian people, businesses and communities.

Regional Recovery Committees (RRC) are being established in Tasmania's south, north and north-west to support Tasmania's recovery from COVID-19 in all communities across the state.

The committees will play an important role in identifying the medium and long-term recovery needs within each region, as well as enabling locally-led, place-based recovery activities.

The committees will initially be appointed for two years, to identify the specific impacts of COVID-19 in each region, each region's priorities for recovery, recommend government-led recovery activities, and enable community-led recovery activities and support the government in the ongoing response to and recovery from COVID-19.

RRC members will all be based in the relevant region and will include nine members, the mayor of one predominantly rural or regional local council in the RRC region, the mayor of one predominantly urban local council in the RRC region, two community members living in the RRC region, one young person (18-24 years) living in the RRC region, one State Government representative, one Commonwealth representative, one business or business sector organisation and one social services sector organisation.

Tasmanians are invited to apply to be a community or youth representative on the three RRCs by visiting www.coronavirus.tas.gov.au/recovery

Storytime from space

Kingston Library was one of many organisations across Tasmania that celebrated National Simultaneous Storytime (NSS) on Wednesday, May 19.

NSS is a fun, free and vibrant event that encourages families to read with their children, as the same book is read at the same time, by hundreds of thousands of readers across the country.

ALIA, Scholastic, the Australian Space Agency and the Office of the Chief Scientist banded together to bring children across Australia an intergalactic experience this year.

Dr Shannon Walker, a real astronaut located on the International Space Station (ISS), read the book Give me some Space!, written and illustrated by Philip Bunting.

Dr Walker is a NASA astronaut who has spent more than 200 days in space.

She is currently serving as a mission specialist for the SpaceX Crew-1 mission, which travelled to the ISS on the spacecraft, Resilience, on November 15, 2020.

Closer to home, Tasmanian astronomer Dr Martin George credits his inspiration for becoming an astronomer to books, reading and storytelling.

"My upbringing included plenty of time with books," said Dr George.

"I became addicted to reading.

"I still have many of the astronomy books from my childhood and I remember the inspiration they gave me to pursue a career in astronomy.

"One of my favourite activities as a child was being taken by my father to the State Library of Tasmania in Hobart, and I recall being fascinated by the storytelling taking place there."

Last year, more than 1,297,000 participants at more than 14,469 locations joined the fun.

Kingston Library hosted 101 children and 20 adults for this year's event, including visitors from Possums Early Learning Centre and Taroona Primary School.

The team did some warm up songs, then the children listened to Dr Walker read Give me some Space! from the ISS.

Afterward the team also read Zelda's Big Adventure by Marie Alafaci and included a theatre style performance by library staff which was greatly enjoyed by their guests.

Students at Channel Christian School in Margate were fascinated watching this year's National Simultaneous Storytime book being read from the International Space Station on Wednesday, May 19. (PS)

New vessels increase capacity

Two faster, more reliable Tasmanian-built vessels, the Parrabah and the Nairana, have replaced the Mirambeena and are now serving the route.

When announcing the vessel's retirement, Minister for Infrastructure and Transport, Michael Ferguson MP said the replacements were designed to improve operations.

"The combined use of the new vessels will provide passengers with a much more reliable, efficient and comfortable service and landside infrastructure upgrade works which are well underway and will maximise their operation," remarked Minister Ferguson.

"Combined, the two new vessels are capable of faster turnaround times and an overall greater crossing capacity.

"A 20-minute rotational timetable allows the two new vessels to carry up to 90 to 108 vehicles an hour, compared to 82 vehicles an hour utilising the Mirambeena and the Moongalba on half hourly services.

"Capacity will also increase when the vessels run on shuttle during times of high demand.

"I know that for many locals and shackies, the "Mirra" has been a part of island life, helping to move generations of Bruny families to and from the island.

"So it is sad to see her retire,"

Over its service life the Mirambeena has made an estimated 230,000 crossings between Kettering and the island, carrying more than six million vehicles during this time.

The MV Bowen remains available for back-up for the new vessels if required, in order to meet current operational, turn-around and scheduling requirements of the service.

The Mirambeena will be berthed at Prince of Wales Bay while the Department of State Growth plans disposal options for the decommissioned vessel.

Lit up for road safety

National Road Safety Week was recognised around the country from May 16 to 23.

To raise road safety awareness, both the Kingston Civic Centre and the Kingborough Community Hub were lit up in yellow.

Chair of the Kingborough Community Safety Committee, Acting Mayor of Kingborough, Cr Jo Westwood acknowledged National Road Safety Week in a media release on May 19.

Acting Mayor Westwood said the Kingborough Community Safety Committee is focused on improving safety around schools.

"Earlier this year we launched a Safe Speeds for Schools project aimed at increasing the safety of children in school zones," Acting Mayor Westwood noted.

"The aim is to alert drivers to the need to slow down when travelling through school zones.

"Two sets of digital display boards are rotating around Kingborough's 16 schools."

Police Inspector Mark Burke, who joined the team at Kingston Police Station recently, said he looked forward to working with the community and council on road safety.

"Police traffic enforcement activities are aimed at improving driver behaviour and removing unsafe drivers from our roads, but police cannot manage road safety alone," Inspector Burke said.

Inspector Burke was welcomed to Kingborough by Acting Mayor Westwood.

"Inspector Burke will be an important member of the Kingborough Community Safety Committee contributing a wealth of expertise and advice," Acting Mayor Westwood said.

"Every year too many preventable crashes cause devastation for families and have a ripple impact on our community."

Kingston's new Police Inspector, Mark Burke, was recently welcomed to Kingborough by Acting Mayor Jo Westwood. (PS)

Thriving Kingborough community discussion

A community driven conversation for what kind of Kingborough residents want for the future took place on Saturday, May 22 at the Kingborough Community Hub.

The discussion was organised by the recently formed Kingborough Thrives community group, which consists of engaged local residents who are seeking to increase active involvement in democracy throughout Kingborough.

Some of the Kingborough Thrives organisers will be standing independently for upcoming by-election or the 2022 council elections.

“Most of us live here because we love it and there’s always room for improvement,” read a statement from Kingborough Thrives in the lead up to the event.

So we want to hear about what you’d like to see changed/improved/focused on here.

“Bring and contribute your passion to make Kingborough an even better place to live, work and play

“We are a secular, inclusive group aiming to make democracy work for everyone.

“We are running a range of small and larger community dialogues with the data gathered being made publicly available and provided to all candidates in the 2022 local council and state government elections.”

For the What kind of Kingborough? event, participants were encouraged to take part as individual local citizens, without representing any business, organisation, political parties or other interest groups.

Questions on the day centred around what changes the community wants to see in the region and how elected representatives could better serve the local community.

Those attending were asked several questions, including:

- What needs to change for Kingborough to be a more compassionate and caring place?
- What kinds of development do residents want to keep, stop or start happening throughout Kingborough?
- What do you want your elected representatives to change, initiate or lead?

Mary Dwyer, a local resident and highly respected consultant, facilitated the discussions.

Ms Dwyer has worked with leaders nationally and internationally and is a modern leader in her own right who advocates new ideas based on a balance of kindness and strength.

Specialising in executive leadership development, conflict transformation and prevention, Ms Dwyer has worked in 16 different countries with people from 44 different nationalities.

Specialising in executive leadership development, conflict transformation and prevention, Ms Dwyer has worked in 16 different countries with people from 44 different nationalities.

Due to COVID-19 restrictions, the event capacity was limited to 120 people but the group has encouraged residents who would like to host a smaller kitchen table discussion to get in touch.

For those wanting more information, Kingborough Thrives can be contacted via email at kingboroughthrives@gmail.com or through their Facebook page.

A community-led discussion organised by Kingborough Thrives took place at the Kingborough Community Hub on Saturday, May 22 which focused on what kind of future residents want for the region. (PS)

Getting vaccinated against COVID

A message from Dr Shannon Melody, Specialist Medical Advisor, Tasmanian Vaccination Emergency Operations Centre.

COVID-19 vaccinations are a big step towards protecting the lives of millions of people around the globe and reducing the impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic.

On a global scale, COVID-19 has already claimed the lives of over 3.3 million people.

All Tasmanians need to have accurate information to help them make an informed decision about getting a COVID-19 vaccine.

Below are answers to Tasmania's most frequently asked questions.

Why should I get vaccinated?

Vaccination is an important way for people to protect themselves, their family and their community against COVID-19.

Vaccination protects against COVID-related illness and will offer peace of mind of by providing another layer of protection to loved ones and people nearby.

High levels of vaccination against COVID-19 is a key tool in fighting the pandemic.

If most of the adult population gets vaccinated, this will reduce the health, social and economic impacts of the pandemic.

Every dose of vaccine makes a difference.

Which COVID-19 vaccines are available in Tasmania and how do they work?

There are currently two COVID-19 vaccines available in Australia: the Pfizer vaccine and the AstraZeneca vaccine. Both vaccines require two doses.

For the Pfizer vaccine, people will receive two vaccinations approximately three weeks apart.

For the AstraZeneca vaccine, people will receive two vaccinations approximately 12 weeks apart.

Both vaccines are highly effective at reducing the severity of COVID-19.

Both vaccines work by training the immune system to recognise and respond to the virus that causes COVID-19.

What about vaccine side effects and the blood clotting issue?

Over a billion doses of COVID-19 vaccine have been delivered globally to date.

The COVID-19 vaccinations available in Australia have been approved by an expert regulatory body, the Therapeutic Goods Administration (TGA).

Once approved, the TGA and the Australian Technical Advisory Group on Immunisation (ATAGI) monitor data within Australia and from around the world to ensure that the vaccines remain safe.

All vaccines can have side effects and the COVID-19 vaccines are no different.

After vaccination some people experience no side effects at all and some experience mild side effects.

Serious side effects are very rare.

Common side effects of vaccination may include redness at the vaccine site, a sore arm, muscle aches and fatigue.

Some people may also experience a mild fever or headache.

These symptoms usually start within 24 hours of vaccination and last for one to two days.

These symptoms are not of concern unless severe or persistent.

Those experiencing worrying side effects should contact their GP.

A rare but serious side effect called thrombosis with thrombocytopenia syndrome (TTS) has been associated with the AstraZeneca vaccine.

TTS occurs when there are blood clots (thrombosis) and low platelets (thrombocytopenia).

This syndrome generally occurs between four and 20 days after the first dose of the vaccine.

Global data suggests that while the overall incidence of TTS is low, it is higher in those under 50 years of age. This newly described syndrome is different from more common clots, such as deep vein thrombosis.

These more common blood clots can occur in around 50 Australians every day separate to vaccination and are not related to the rare TTS clotting disorder.

TTS has not been seen after the Pfizer vaccine.

As a result, the Pfizer vaccine is the preferred vaccine for people under 50 years of age.

For those who have already received their first dose of AstraZeneca without complication, there is no reason to delay or miss the second dose (even if under 50).

Both doses of the vaccine are required to be protected against COVID-19.

Anyone with any concerns about getting vaccinated, speak with their usual health care provider.

Which vaccine should I get?

Pfizer is preferred over the AstraZeneca vaccine for adults under the age of 50.

In people aged 50 years and over, AstraZeneca is recommended.

The benefits of vaccination far outweigh the risk of the rare but serious blood clotting complication for people in this age group.

This is because the risk of serious outcomes from COVID-19 infection increases with age.

Decisions about which vaccine to administer are based on the best medical evidence available.

For particular concerns about individual circumstances or conditions, please speak to a doctor or health care provider.

Helping women dress for success

It's getting cold and women looking for work, or who have just got a new job, need the support of the community.

Dress for Success Hobart, Chief Executive Officer Amanda French said women's empowerment charity Dress for Success has seen increased demand from women needing excellent quality, warm winter clothing for interviews and for employment.

"We're heading into our first winter of providing women in need with work appropriate clothing and so we've put a call out to the community to help us with this," said Ms French.

Dress for Success are looking for donations of near new winter work clothing including pants, jumpers, coats, umbrellas, gloves, scarves and shoes.

The charity is partnering with local businesses each month to collect clothing donations.

"We were thrilled to be able to support Dress for Success in their Winter Clothing Drive," said Sarah Woolley of Raine and Horne Kingborough Rentals.

"This is an easy way to support an incredible charity doing wonderful things in the community."

"The values of Dress for Success align with our company values so we were more than happy to help."

Dress for Success Hobart opened its doors in November 2019 and had only just begun delivering services when COVID-19 forced a full shut down.

The charity managed to survive the pandemic due to a grant from the Tasmanian Community Fund and is now ramping up services for women experiencing unemployment who are looking to re-engage with the workforce.

"We're so grateful for the support," said Amanda.

"Donations from the public are what keep our boutique fully stocked with beautiful items for our clients."

Funding hits the right notes

The Salty Dog Hotel in Kingston Beach is sharing in more than $2.5 million of Federal funding in round two of the Live Music Australia Program.

Minister for Communications, Urban Infrastructure, Cities and the Arts, the Honourable Paul Fletcher MP, said the grants would support the immediate needs of the Australian live music industry.

"The Australian music industry is facing particular pressures in light of the severe impacts of COVID-19," Minister Fletcher said.

"That is why we are pleased to continue to support local venues to increase performance opportunities and showcase Australian talent.

"Round 2 of the program is funding venues in every state and territory, from pubs in the remote outback, to clubs and theatres in major capital cities, assisting them to re-open, as restrictions on public gatherings and live music performance are lifted."

Applications for round three of the program will open later this year.

For the list of Round 2 recipients and for information on how to apply for round three, visit www.grants.gov.au or www.arts.gov.au

Mudbrick masterwork in Longley

Hand built by artisans and reminiscent of the farmhouses of France, this beautifully constructed mudbrick home evokes another time and place.

The warmth and character of the home has been evolved over decades in the hands of loving caretakers and is apparent upon entry. There is an elegant use of timber, stone and earth throughout, alongside thoughtful attention to detail.

At the heart of the home is the open-plan kitchen, living and dining area. Raked timber ceilings, reclaimed timber posts, polished concrete and second-hand brick and tile floors are complimented by stunning Huon pine windows which frame the picturesque north-facing garden and mountain views.

A quintessential country-style kitchen pairs white cabinetry with a rustic timber bench and contemporary, stone benchtops.

A woodfire and under-floor heating keeps the home cosy in the colder months and a large study provides a quiet retreat or second family living space.

Upstairs, the enormous master bedroom has all the elegance of a French villa, including dado panelling and high ceilings with detailed corning.

A sunny balcony offers views over the gardens.

There's an ensuite bathroom and picture-perfect study, while across the landing is a second, very generous bedroom.

A two-bedroom studio retains the same level of craftsmanship and appeal, providing ideal visitor accommodation or extended family living.

Around the home the land is level, private and well maintained, with mountain and bush views.

The garden and grounds are planted with a mix of established European and native trees.

There are garden sheds, chook sheds, woodsheds and workshops, as well as an abundance of local birdlife and wildlife including the rare and endangered Tasmanian devils.

A magnificent, yet modest, family property.

MEET KERRI-LOUISE HOOPER

Recommended service!

"I really felt comfortable with Kerri-Louise from our first meeting. She listened and was responsive to all my wishes. Her willingness to sell out of area on Bruny Island was appreciated and her efficiency and drive was outstanding. Kerri-Louise is a super communicator and therefore you know where things are at; at any time. She is organised and provides you with a timetable of events which was very important when selling a working property.

She knows her craft and delivered an outcome in a short time frame that more than met my expectations.

I am pleased to recommend her to anyone selling a property on Bruny or elsewhere. Thank you for all your work Kerri Louise!"

Rayburns available at Hollander Imports

Rayburn combustion stoves have been made in Britain since 1946, just after the end of World War II.

They are still being made today and have been sold by Hollander Imports for over 25 years.

The superior quality of the Rayburn brand is well known in Australia for its efficiency.

Hollander Imports sells and stocks the wood burning models, which are excellent for heating rooms in which they are installed.

They have a cast iron oven, which provides very efficient heat retention or cooking family meals, along with cast-iron cooking plates, including a quick boil plate.

Rayburn cookers also provide hot water needs for the family and are ideal for both city and rural living.

The Rayburn Model 355 is able to provide central heating, in addition to all of the operations mentioned above.

To suit the central heating model, flue kits, hot water cylinders and radiator panels are also available from Hollander Imports.

John Hollander and his team are more than happy to assist you with your heating requirements.

For further information on the Rayburn cookers, stop in at Hollander Imports at 87 Brooker Highway in Hobart or call 6234 5799.

They are open Monday to Friday from 9am to 6pm.

The Rayburn 200 Series combustion stoves are perfectly at home in any kitchen. Available from Hollander Imports in a variety of colours to suit your décor, have a chat to John or staff at 87 Brooker Highway in Hobart about your needs. (PS)

Heat pump efficiency

Could your heat pump be costing you more than it should, or worse, affecting your family's health?

If it's been a few years without maintenance, there's a good chance it is.

Heat pumps should be cleaned and sanitised at least every 12 months so they run more efficiently, cost less and offer cleaner, healthier air.

A heat pump/air conditioner unit only recycles the air in the room, it doesn't pump fresh air in from outside.

This means dust, human and pet dander, mice droppings, mould spores, micro-organisms and viruses could be getting blown around in the air you breathe.

This may be triggering asthma, allergies, a stuffy nose, watery eyes and, in some cases, even more serious health risks.

When it comes to cleaning your heat pump/air conditioner, Sanitair has been cleaning and sanitising all brands and types of air conditioning systems Australia wide for over 16 years.

For more information, call Rob Green on 0448 145 311 or visit www.sanitair.com.au

Coin hunt in Kingston

A new collection of $1 coins, featuring iconic and admired symbols of Australian life, is now available at Australia Post in the return of its collectables program, The Great Aussie Coin Hunt 2.

Symbols on the new coins, produced in partnership with the Royal Australian Mint, range from the Akubra to Zinc sunscreen and include instantly recognisable Australian landmarks, brands and a longstanding television program.

Postal Service Officer Michelle Speakman showed the Kingborough Chronicle the range of coins on offer at the Kingston Post Office on May 19.

“The Great Aussie Coin Hunt is a really fun way for families to connect and share their memories of each icon and we love having similar conversations when our customers get one of the coins in their change,” said Michelle.

“Who hasn’t had to deal with a fly or two each summer or enjoyed a classic Aussie barbecue?”

Australia Post Executive General Manager Community and Consumer Nicole Sheffield said the Great Aussie Coin Hunt 2 would again create a sense of fun and excitement with a touch of nostalgia as people reflect on their connection to quintessentially Australian themes.

“We’re thrilled to once again partner exclusively with the Royal Australian Mint to celebrate 26 Australian icons and connect families and communities through the fun of the hunt and the good-humoured banter that it generates,” said Ms Sheffield.

“This year, we are releasing the full alphabet from the start of the hunt but they will be in limited supply.”

Royal Australian Mint CEO Mr Leigh Gordon said the icons on the coins were selected by sampling the Australian public, and range from favourite foods to some of Australia’s lesser known native flora and fauna.

“There is definitely something for everyone in this coin series and we are delighted to be again working with Australia Post to create a playful way for all Australians to engage with coins and take a light-hearted look at our way of life,” remarked Mr Gordon.

For further details about the Australian icons featured on the coins, or about the Great Aussie Coin Hunt 2, visit aussiecoinhunt.com.au

Blackmans Bay Primary School Grade 6 student Matilda and Grade 4 student Lucy examined the Great Aussie Coin Hunt 2 collection at the Kingston Post Office on May 19.

Intergalactic inspiration

A book published by two Kingborough teenagers, has quickly gained popularity since its release, gathering national interest.

Seventeen-year-old writer Madeline Lowe and co-author Layla Ottaway, who are both on the autism spectrum, are attracting interest from around Australia due to their book, Planet Alterra.

The book has been featured on the Melbourne book review podcast Middle Grade Mavens and the popular Facebook groups Chat 10 Looks 3 and Too Peas in a Podcast.

Hobart playwright and author Fiona Lohrbacher said the novel was original, unpredictable and presented a well-crafted world on another planet.

“My kids and I loved the book so much,” Ms Lohrbacher said.

a darned good read.”

The positive feedback received since its release in April has seen the book ordered from schools, educators, parents of autistic children and families around the country.

Madeline’s original artwork features on the cover, throughout the text and now on a range of associated T-shirts.

Layla said she and Madeline really appreciated people’s direct support of their work.

“We feel a close connection to every family who supports our book,” Layla remarked.

“We know a lot of these families have been through difficult times living with autism and Madeline and I have been through those times and continue to manage challenges.

“We hope that we can be an inspiration for others on the spectrum.”

Layla Ottaway and Madeline Lowe attended the Tassie Indie Author Book Fair on Saturday, May 8, to promote their newly published book, Planet Alterra. (PS)

Continuing their winning way, team Cawthorn got over the line in the last couple of ends of their game to secure a victory by seven shots in the Round 6 match in the Donald Hazell Indoor Centre at Margate.
Cawthorn remained ladder leaders at the conclusion of the round, with the Tuesday Afternoon Fours Competition consisting of 15 rounds total.
Team Baker, this week's line-up being Dominic Lacy, Peter Kirby, Gary Baker and skip Terry Thompson, were top scorers on the day, overcoming last week's top winners team Mus by 22 shots.
As a result, team Mus slid from second place to sixth on the leader board.
The ever-reliable Rosny based team Newbold, the line up on the day being Geoff Roberts, Geoff Benson, Graham Roulston and skip, Neville 'Nifty' Bryant, accounted for team Hickey by 17 shots and moved from sixth to fifth on the ladder.
The displacement of team Mus to sixth resulted in teams Baker, Hinkley, Chaffey and Newbold, in that order, each moving up a place from last week in the top six.
Harra's Harem were temporarily renamed 'Graeme's Girls' for this week's game as Graeme Walker acted as a replacement skip in the team for Ian Harris for the day.

Results of play on the day were; Hinkley defeated Hemmings 25-14, Cawthorn defeated Harra's Harem (Graeme's Girls) 23-16, Chaffey defeated Monks 20-15, Baker defeated Mus 30-8, Newbold defeated Hickey 22-5, Schooling defeated McIlroy 28-13, Morgan defeated Bridge 25-10 and Rosevear defeated Kosi 23-12.
The Wednesday Night Fours Competition in the Donald Hazell Indoor Centre saw two surprize results.
The previously unbeaten South Africans suffered their first defeat of the series when Allen Sculthorpe defeated them 11-17.
The cellar dwellers, the Oaktree Raiders achieved their first win of the series when they downed the Claremont Monties 18-11.
This win by the Raiders got them off the bottom of the competition ladder, as the Monties have only one draw and no wins so far.
Other results on the night were; Willies Wonkers grounded Mark Burgess' Seagulls 16-11, The Scrubbers cleaned up the Royal Hobart Dodgers, Better Performance scattered the Leftovers 17-12, the Geeveston Woodcutters were a chop above the Sandy Bay Boomers defeating them 23-9, the Dynamics were back to their best, packing the Cherry Pickers away 25-9 and the Pumpkin Patch overran Sylvia Titan 20-10.

After this round, there are four teams on 15 points only separated by shots up.
After their first loss, The South Africans are still on top with their plus 92 shots up.
Even though Allen Sculthorpe defeated the South Africans, his team dropped from second spot into third because the Pumpkin Patch edged in front of him on plus 59, with Allen only two behind on plus 57.
Better Performance is also on 15 points with plus 49 shots up.
