

Inquiry sought into elections

Independent Member of the Tasmanian Legislative Council, Meg Webb, is seeking to establish a Joint Select Committee to inquire into Tasmania's 2021 House of Assembly and Legislative Council elections.

The Kingborough based Independent Member for Nelson tabled a Notice of Motion on Tuesday, June 22, to establish a Joint Select Committee consisting of four members.

Ms Webb said elections are a fundamental right of the Tasmanian people. "We are now seeing a pattern of Tasmanian voters losing confidence in the integrity of our elections and their politicians," Ms Webb said.

"We must put an end to that pattern."

"It is vital public confidence in the conduct of elections is maintained."

Ms Webb said Parliament can and must play a key role in maintaining that confidence.

"In other jurisdictions this is undertaken through the routine practice of conducting a Parliamentary review or inquiry after each election."

"For example, the Federal Parliament has a Joint Standing Committee on Electoral Matters, which undertakes a routine inquiry after each federal election."

Ms Webb said the 2021 elections raised a number of concerns, including:

- The legitimacy of the rationale for calling an early election for the House of Assembly.
- Concerns over potential voter disenfranchisement with a failure to provide Legislative Council ballot papers at voting booths beyond the borders of Windemere and Derwent.
- Issues with the preselection and subsequent resignation of Adam Brooks.
- The impact of holding concurrent House of Assembly and Legislative Council elections, including clarity on how the financial benefit accrued from the Lower House election campaigning activities will be assessed against the legislated restrictions applied to Legislative Council elections."

Ms Webb said a Joint Select Committee will deliver a general review of the administration of the elections, as opposed to the election outcome.

"It is in the public interest to strengthen our democracy and should be a routine priority for Parliament."

"This inquiry will provide a vehicle for Tasmanian citizens and expert stakeholders to raise concerns, provide evidence and suggest improvements or solutions."

"A Joint House approach is the most appropriate way to conduct this inquiry."

"I hope to have the support of colleagues in both chambers to progress the establishment of a Joint House Select Committee for this purpose."

Plan to increase traffic squeeze

Southern Outlet "traffic squeeze" in Macquarie and Davey Streets in Hobart was given a special mention in the Federal Parliament during question time on June 21, by Independent Member for Clark, Andrew Wilkie MP.

Mr Wilkie said State Government funding of $35 million for a fifth lane for the Southern Outlet would not fix the problem.

"The Southern Outlet plan is especially unfathomable as all it will do is see many homes demolished and more vehicles squeezed into the already grid-locked Macquarie and Davey Streets," Mr Wilkie said.

Mr Wilkie called on the Federal Minister for Communications, Urban Infrastructure, Cities and the Arts, Paul Fletcher MP, to intervene and help sort out the situation, noting that the Hobart City Deal is "a working partnership between all levels of government".

However, in reply Minister Fletcher did not provide any commitment to intervene and help sort out the situation.

Mr Wilkie later summarised the outcome on his webpage, stating a "sustainable vision" for transport was needed in Hobart.

"The Southern Outlet expansion is especially ill-considered because all it'll do is see homes demolished and more traffic squeezed into Macquarie and Davey Streets," Mr Wilkie noted.

"The Minister for Communications, Urban Infrastructure, Cities and the Arts refused to acknowledge the traffic congestion being experienced in Hobart nowadays."

"What's actually needed is a sustainable vision for transport in the city including the broadest range of alternative technologies and systems."

"Not just a couple of ferries, but the reintroduction of trains, much improved public transport and a genuinely effective network of bicycle infrastructure."

"Doing so will not only fix current problems, but also set the city up for the challenges of the future including UTAS's relocation into the CBD," Mr Wilkie concluded.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Mountain wilderness is our identity

Dear Editor,
Thank you for your articles "Premier silent on cable car donors" (June 1) and "Representations open on cable car" (June 8).

I took the opportunity to make a representation to Hobart City Council and have urged the council to reject the cable car proposal.

My opposition is based on sentiments similar to those expressed in the proponent's visual impact assessments, which correctly says in its executive summary:

"The mountain plays a central role in the psyche of Hobart residents, as the pre-eminent representation of place.

"In addition to grounding its viewers in place, its constant presence serves to ground viewers in time, as an ever-present reminder of geological deep-history and the relative fleetingness and impermanence of the lives of those living below and playing upon its mass.

"The mountain symbolises not only permanence and grounded-ness, it is the very symbol of 'wilderness' that is central to Hobart and Tasmania's identity and sense of place."

It is precisely for these reasons that an unnecessary piece of meddling with the soul of Hobart for, what is essentially entertainment, an amusement ride designed to enrich a few private individuals, should be rejected.

The impact of a cable car up the side of the mountain will very seriously diminish the 'wilderness' aesthetic value of it. It should not drape itself over the mountain.

In a media release on May 19, Tasmania's Minister for Infrastructure and Transport Michael Ferguson MP, said the State Government always strongly supported the proposal.

I don't want this government influence to affect the proposal outcome.

I would also like to draw attention to the proposal's community-benefit-analysis, which is not an analysis, but more a piece of marketing spin.

It does not address counter-benefits or adverse community impacts and the proposal should be rejected because of it.

Hobart City Council now has the opportunity to be bold on behalf of the wider community by not approving the proposal.

Parking problems

Dear Editor,
It seems that many of the local shopping centres are trying to discourage patronage of their own centres.

I'm sure their tenants would not like the negative publicity that is being generated, as published in Letters to the Editor in the Kingborough Chronicle over the last few weeks.

The most ridiculous restriction, of course, is that of Bayview Market Shopping Centre at Blackmans Bay.

One hour only.
Yes, one hour.

Who could even imagine that gives you time to do some shopping at the supermarket?

Perhaps have your hair done?

Go to the dentist or doctor?

Perhaps look for something in the newsagency?

An hour of relaxing massage?

Oh wait, that's not possible or you'll get booked.

As for having a nice relaxing coffee and cake at Banjo's, forget it.

An hour just won't do.

We're now aware of the confusing signs at Channel Court.

At Kingston Plaza there's the imposing 'You are entering into a contract' sign and a lot of legal double speak.

What, just to park your car?

That leaves Kingston Town.

After their excellent feature in this week's paper it's looking like a good shopper-friendly alternative.

Helping Kingborough thrive

Dear Editor,
With the Kingborough Council by-election approaching, I'm asking everyone to vote for independent candidates, rather than any associated with a major political party.

Party candidates seem more interested in using council as a stepping stone to parliament.

This by-election seems to be the result.

In my view, party-aligned candidates seem less interested in supporting the needs of the residents than in progressing their own careers.

Voting for the same known names will only produce the same disappointing results.

By checking out each candidate online you will find a new and energetic person who can help Kingborough to thrive.

Lucas van Rijswijk Kettering

Cost of the by-election

Dear Editor,
I am very disappointed that we have an upcoming by-election, not necessarily because we need to vote, but because I understand the ratepayers of Kingborough may have a bill of upwards of $200,000 to pay.

That amount would be much better spent on services throughout the municipality or reduce the rates of already struggling families.

I realise it's in accordance with the Local Government Act, however I believe it should be that if the Deputy Mayor does not want to step up, then there should be a recount for mayor and councillor.

Intergenerational afternoon tea

Back by popular demand, Kingborough Council's Youth Services Christmas in July afternoon tea will be celebrated this year, thanks to a small group of enthusiastic youth.

Acting Mayor of Kingborough, Cr Jo Westwood said the young hosts will be volunteering in the school holidays to provide a catered afternoon tea for community members aged over 65 years.

"They will be creating delicious sweet and savoury treats and learning how to plan for a professional function," Acting Mayor Westwood said.

"Intergenerational events such as these have been a highlight of council's Youth Services/Positive Ageing calendar since 2012.

"The event is a positive way to bring our young and older people together.

"The event is a great way for our young people to gain important hands-on learning experience, whilst enjoying a unique afternoon with some of our valuable elderly community members."

The event is being held on Friday, July 16, at the Twin Ovals Function Centre in Kingston and entry cost includes sweet and savoury treats, coffee or tea, a drink from the bar and entertainment.

Participant numbers have been reduced this year due to social distancing requirements.

Offence of misconduct in public office

“It is particularly important for our Parliament to show leadership and accountability on this, given the fact we have now experienced two elections in a row that have given rise to community questions, concerns and prompted a diminishment of confidence amongst Tasmanian citizens.”

The Kingborough Chronicle wrote to local Labor members David O’Byrne MP, Ella Haddad MP, Bastian Seidel MP and Dean Winter MP and local Liberal members Elise Archer MP, Jacque Petrusma MP, Nic Street MP and Madeleine Ogilvie MP on June 23, asking:

“Do you agree Tasmania’s Parliament should put in place a routine practice of conducting a Parliamentary review or inquiry after each election (as routinely done in other jurisdictions)?”

Responses will be reported in next week’s Kingborough Chronicle.

Meanwhile Tasmania’s Integrity Commission has advised the Integrity Commission Act 2009 does not apply to Members of Parliament during an election campaign, according to the Member for Clark, Cassy O’Connor MP.

In a media statement on June 23, the Tasmanian Greens leader announced a Bill had been tabled to remove the loophole.

“Today we tabled the Integrity Commission (Members of Parliament) Bill 2021 to remedy that loophole,” said Ms O’Connor.

“While it is true a Member of Parliament is not considered a Member during an election period, they retain benefits of the office,” noted Ms O’Connor MP.

“These benefits include staffing and resources, a Parliamentary salary and general influence.”

Ms O’Connor said the Integrity Commission recommended fixing the loophole seven years ago.

“Our amendment bill ensures an incumbent MP contesting an election, who retains numerous benefits of office, is still accountable under the Integrity Commission Act 2009,” said Ms O’Connor MP.

Meanwhile, Tasmania is the only state in Australia without a ‘Misconduct in Public Office’ offence in its criminal code or common law.

On June 23 Ms O’Connor announced the tabling of a Criminal Code Amendment (Misconduct in Public Office) Bill 2021.

“In 2014, the Integrity Commission released a report recommending that this (Misconduct in Public Office) offence be established,” said Ms O’Connor.

“The offence establishes that a public officer who intentionally and dishonestly, using the benefits of their office, gains a benefit for themselves or another person or causes a detriment to another person is guilty of misconduct in public office.

“This reform is long overdue.”

Ms O’Connor said the Tasmanian Greens members had moved for this offence in Parliament twice previously.

Rockface work blocks peak traffic

Work to remove rock from a rockface adjacent to the Southern Outlet, in the vicinity of The Lea turnoff, held up motorists heading toward Kingston on the morning of Wednesday, June 23.

Two south-bound lanes of traffic were moved into one, with a reduced speed limit, and detoured to far left-hand side of the road, away from the rockface, rock-breaking machinery and debris.

As the rock-breaking machinery worked, traffic was brought to a standstill, causing unexpected delays for many people travelling to work.

Queue-jumping was observed, as many drivers ignored the sign indicating the right lane was blocked ahead, and instead used it as an opportunity to accelerate past the line of vehicles in the left lane, before indicating and attempting to merge at the bottleneck.

Roadwork signs informed the south-bound motorists the lane closure would be in place from 7am to 2:30pm.

Rocks and debris had fallen onto the road at the site on June 17, following a period of rainfall, causing dangerous road conditions and traffic delays.

A concrete barrier was installed on Friday, June 18, to protect the road from any further slippage while the condition of the rockface was investigated.

The investigation showed safety fencing was successful in slowing the original fall and containing much of the material, preventing the event from impacting a larger section of the road.

The Department of State Growth uses rock stabilisation and road protection measures at sites around the state where a potential risk to road users from rock falls has been identified and sites are also monitored periodically to check for any changes.

Work to remove rock from a rockface adjacent to the Southern Outlet, in the vicinity of The Lea, held up motorists heading toward Kingston on the morning of Wednesday, June 23.

COMMENT COLUMN

with Dr Bastian Seidel MLC

The Tasmanian Parliament is back, and with it there are new faces, new ideas and new responsibilities.

Labor was unsuccessful in its bid for State Government this time around and the result has sent a clear message for the party to be better and for all of us to work much harder.

The policies Labor announced in the lead up to May 1 were well received by the Tasmanian people, however the disunity in the party ultimately proved to be an issue too great to overcome.

This result was disappointing, and Labor knows it needs to be better.

Yet despite not winning government, Labor will continue to fight for the people of Kingborough, and all of Tasmania.

Labor has a vision for a better, fairer Tasmania.

A Tasmania that does not lag behind the rest of the nation, a Tasmania where people have access to safe and secure housing, better healthcare, good jobs and high-quality education.

This vision is shared by the Parliamentary Labor Party team that includes newly elected member for Franklin Dean Winter, re-elected member for Clark Ella Haddad and re-elected member for Franklin, Labor Leader David O'Byrne.

Dean is a former Mayor of Kingborough and his addition to the team cannot be understated.

No doubt everyone reading this knows the positive impact Dean had on Kingborough in his time as Mayor and this same pro-active approach will be taken into parliament to better the lives of Tasmanians.

It is fantastic that both Ella Haddad MP and David O'Byrne MP have been re-elected to represent the Kingborough community.

Both Ella and David have shown a drive to represent their electorates during their time in Parliament and over the next four years they will continue to fight for the people of Tasmania.

David was recently elected Labor leader after an historic leadership ballot that involved around 1000 Labor Party Members.

David's strong result in this ballot shows to Tasmanians that Labor will bounce back as a united, stronger party.

As member for Huon I look forward to the role I play in the new Labor Party team.

I have kept my role as Shadow Minister for Health, Mental Health and Wellbeing and taken on the mantle of Shadow Minister for Community Services and Development and Shadow Minister for Parks and Environment.

This increased workload will allow me to continue to fight for Tasmania on some of the issues that matter most.

I am passionate about delivering better health services to Tasmanians, ensuring our state is full of strong and vibrant communities and helping to balance protecting our state's rich wilderness areas while keeping Tasmanian jobs safe.

These new portfolio roles will allow me to even better represent my electorate of Huon and Tasmania in the upper house of the Tasmanian Parliament and I look forward to meeting with members of the community of all walks of life to better inform the decisions Labor makes in these crucial areas.

The next four years will be a great challenge for Labor.

We must continue to be an effective opposition, present a different approach to the Government and also help make Tasmanians lives better.

It's going to be busy times ahead and for your Labor team it means all hands-on deck for a better future for all Tasmanians.

Swift parrot habitat secured via covenants

Kingborough residents may be familiar with the sight of migrating swift parrots.

Bigger than a budgie but smaller than a rosella, the critically endangered swift parrot streaks through the air at speeds of up to 90 kilometres an hour.

The brightly coloured and iconic bird is one of only two parrots that annually migrate from mainland Australia to breed in Tasmania.

Arriving in spring, they seek out flowering blue gums, find a mate and a suitable nest, and spend the summer raising chicks.

However, habitat loss, competition for increasingly fewer nesting hollows and predation by introduced sugar gliders are all having a devastating impact on this critically endangered bird according to Natural Resource Management (NRM) South.

Through funding from the Australian Government's National Landcare Program, NRM South has embarked on a project aimed at helping swift parrots establish a road to recovery, including using a system of conservation covenants to secure swift parrot habitat on private land.

One of the challenges for swift parrot conservation is knowing where they will nest.

They choose nesting sites based on where their preferred food, nectar from Tasmanian blue gum flowers, is most abundant during that year and this varies.

"This means we have to be highly adaptive when implementing conservation actions," explained Maudie Brown, Senior Project Officer for NRM South's Biodiversity Program.

"To successfully breed, swift parrots need the right kind of nesting and food resources, so we're working to protect areas of high-value swift parrot habitat on private land to increase their chances.

"This is a longer-term approach to protecting areas we know they need, if not this year, then maybe the next."

Working with project partners, the Tasmanian Land Conservancy and the Department of Primary Industries, Parks, Water and Environment (DPIPWE), sites in Pelverata and Wielangta have now been surveyed and approved for covenants, representing 122 hectares of high-value habitat.

These legally binding agreements will contribute pockets of ecologically valuable land to Australia's National Reserve System.

Simon Roberts, a landholder who has signed on to the project, feels privileged to contribute to endangered species protection.

"We feel a duty of care not only to the animals and plants on our properties but also to their future viability," said Mr Roberts.

"We try to think globally and act locally by considering our property as part of the wider landscape through its potential contribution to the local, regional, state and federal ecological assets."

Ms Brown said the two covenants are a start towards addressing conservation.

"The approval of these two covenants is a great start and DPIPWE have provided valuable in-kind support for the project," remarked Ms Brown.

"It demonstrates that there are many ways of addressing conservation issues, and that community can be involved in these solutions, boosting efforts across our landscapes."

Making Kingborough better for biking

Riding a bike has so many benefits; it's fun, a practical transport mode, great for health and fitness and environmentally friendly.

There are many bike riders, and potential bike riders, in Kingborough and the new Kingborough Bicycle User Group (KBUG) are seeking to bring them together.

A small steering committee has met and agreed on some broad directions for the group, to direct their efforts towards improving cycling conditions across the region and keeping cyclists connected.

KBUG hopes to establish a community of Kingborough riders, keeping them informed, planning group rides, liaising with other riding groups and sharing information about routes, hazards, activities and new facilities.

The group also plans to advocate for better cycling conditions such as safer roads, off-road paths, route connectivity and improved access to key destinations including shops, schools and parks, among others.

Promoting bike riding for both transport and recreation, KBUG is a community group run by bicycle users for bicycle users.

KBUG is independent of Kingborough Council but plans to liaise with the official Bicycle Advisory Committee associated with the council.

"There are already some linkages between KBUG and that committee which we hope will facilitate the best possible input to council actions related to cycling," explained group member Peter Tuft.

"One important thing that council and the bike committee are managing is development of a long-term Cycling Strategy for Kingborough.

"A draft will shortly be released for community consultation and if you have any interest at all in cycling then you ought to have a look and make comment."

KBUG also hopes to provide a broader voice to those in the Kingborough cycling community through their membership and connection with the council's advisory committee.

"The council bike committee necessarily has restricted membership and is perhaps unavoidably a bit distant, but we hope that KBUG will allow more personal connections between all types of cyclists; a riders' community," explained Mr Tuft.

"KBUG is your opportunity to keep in touch with local cycling issues and help make Kingborough better for bikes.

"People who cycle in Kingborough, or would like to but feel that conditions are not yet right for them and want to help with initiatives for the future can sign up to KBUG through their website, kbugbike.wordpress.com and can also keep an eye out for the draft Kingborough Cycling Strategy and send their feedback to Kingborough Council."

Robyn Tuft is one of many cyclists using the Margate to Snug bike path. The off-road path has improved conditions for those wanting to use their bikes for fun, transport or exercise between the two locations. A recently formed Kingborough Bicycle User Group is focussed on "making Kingborough better for bikes". (PS)

Foreshore planting vandalised at Blackmans Bay recently

Kingborough Council recently completed installation of native plants along the foreshore walkway at Blackmans Bay however, vandals have stolen and damaged the plants.

Council officers have recently observed the newly installed planting appears to have been vandalised, with some of the plants being intentionally damaged or stolen.

These planting works are Stage 3 of Kingborough Council's efforts to improve landscape amenity along the foreshore in Blackmans Bay.

Stage 1 of the works involved the partial removal of a coastal wattle hedge to improve pathway clearances.

Stage 2 of the works involved weed management to prepare the site for planting.

"This behaviour is of course unacceptable," stated Kingborough Council on their Facebook page.

"Please report any instances of vandalism or theft of public property to Kingborough Council's Customer Service on 6211 8200."

Taroona's annual Lions Club book sale

The Lions Club of Kingborough will be holding the 52nd annual Taroona Book Sale at the Taroona Shopping Centre on the weekend of July 9 to 11.

The Taroona Book Sale serves not just as a fundraiser, but as an avenue for promoting the joy of reading.

The Book Sale originally started in 1969 by the Ladies Guild of St Luke's Church, Taroona as a fundraiser for the Clarendon Children's Home in Kingston.

In 2004, it was taken over by Taroona High School as a fundraiser for the school, and again in 2013 by the Lions Club of Sandy Bay for community projects.

The Lions Club of Kingborough has run the Book Sale since 2015.

Lions Club member Helen Brookfield, said that the way books are priced is unique.

Rather than being individually priced, the books are placed against a yard stick and sold by their height.

"Priced per centimetre there are plenty of bargains for buyers," said Ms Brookfield.

"This fundraising effort would not be possible without permission from the owners of the Taroona Shopping Centre to use the old supermarket, for which we are very grateful."

The club is still accepting donations of books from members of the public.

Until July 1, books can be left at the old supermarket in the Taroona Shopping Centre on Tuesdays between 10am and noon or Thursdays between 2pm and 4pm, or they can be left in the carport at 2 Taroona Crescent any time during the day.

Anyone who needs help delivering their books can call Frank Lawrence (6227 8012), Hugh Murphy (0408 870 524) or Helen Brookfield (0448 160 751).

New quick response grants announced

A Quick Response Community Assistance component has been added to Kingborough Council's Community Grants program, following a review of the program in late 2020.

The Community Grants program is aimed at assisting projects that have a significant community benefit.

The next round of Community Grant opens in July, with the program annual budget of $40,000, with individual grants of up to of $3000.

The Quick Response Community Assistance component has been allocated $5000 out of the total annual grant budget.

Quick Response Community Assistance grants of up to $1000 will be available throughout the year, or until the allocation is spent.

Kingborough Acting Mayor, Jo Westwood said changes to the Community Grants program were needed to improve efficiency and help to meet the community's needs.

"One funding round annually has now been adopted for the program, rather than splitting the funding over two rounds," Ms Westwood said.

"A Quick Response Community Assistance component has also been added to the program, which allows community groups to apply and receive funding up to $1000 quickly.

"Starting in the new financial year, the Community Grant program will run with an annual budget of $40,000 with the grant round opening in July and closing in September.

"Grant allocations will remain at a maximum of $3000 and will be allocated to projects that have a significant community benefit," Cr Westwood said.

$5000 of the total grant budget is set aside for the 'Quick Response Community Assistance' grants.

"Criteria remains the same for the Quick Response grants.

"Our aim is to support organisations that are running an activity or event who need that little extra bit of assistance to make it happen."

Application forms and guidelines can be found for the grants on council's website, or for more information phone Julie Alderfox on 6211 8170 or email comm\_grants@kingborough.tas.gov.au

Warm smiles, soup and lantern light

More than 300 members of the Channel Christian School community participated in the school's annual lantern walk on the evening of Friday, June 18.

Families braved the chilly air in a colourful, glowing procession of lanterns and bright smiles, along the footpaths of Margate. Each year the school's students create their own special lanterns during class time to take on their annual lantern walk.

Principal, Margaret Louw, said the event is a highlight of the school year.

"The children love to take their parents on a nature walk around the local Dru Point foreshore and walking tracks," said Ms Louw.

"We have an incredible school council and school community who organise the lantern walk.

"This year's walk was exceptional.

"Parents prepared delicious soup to share and others volunteered as traffic marshals."

After the walk, the Conry family shared an interactive story performance in the open-air theatre.

Following the performance, hot soup, bread and spiced apple drink was served.

"Every year one of our past families share a professional dramatised story in our amphitheatre," Ms Louw said.

"Even when it is a cold night, we are warmed by the hot soup and the glow of the lanterns and the smiles on the faces of children and parents.

"We are now excitedly working towards our next big event, which will be the Peter Pan musical."

Matilda, Elissa and Holly were showing their bright smiles and colourful lanterns for the parade. (PS)

Midwinter plunge

Midwinter traditions in Antarctica live on as Australian expeditioners celebrated the year's shortest day and longest night with a sub-zero swim through the sea-ice.

Eighty-six expeditioners are currently spending winter at Australia's three research stations in Antarctica and on sub-Antarctic Macquarie Island.

Casey Station Leader Kyle Williams said midwinter is a significant milestone for expeditioners because it marks 'hump day' in a long dark winter.

"At this time of year at Casey research station, the sun only rises above the horizon for about 2.5 hours, which can be challenging for our small wintering team of 27 people," Mr Williams said.

"After we pass the winter solstice on June 21, the sun begins to climb higher in the sky and we slowly start to get more daylight hours."

Located further south than Casey, expeditioners at Mawson and Davis Research Stations are now living in constant twilight and darkness, with no sunrise for several weeks.

"A midwinter tradition at Australian stations is an icy swim," explained Mr Williams.

"We created a 1.5 metre square pool by cutting through the 80-centimetre thick sea-ice with chainsaws and other equipment.

"The water temperature proved to be a bracing minus 2°C and the air temperature of minus 9°C really got us moving."

The swims are conducted under medical supervision and with safety equipment.

Other midwinter activities include a formal dinner and expeditioners giving each other home-made gifts.

Australian Antarctic Division Director, Kim Ellis, said the year since the last midwinter celebrations has seen "dramatic" changes for Australia's Antarctic Program to deal with the COVID-19 pandemic.

"We have been resilient and adaptive and kept all our research stations going strong and our expeditioners safe for another year," Mr Ellis said.

"Our people deployed south and their families are always in our thoughts.

"Midwinter is an opportunity to have some fun as we reflect on how far we've come and what is yet to be achieved."

Stunning lifestyle property with potential to subdivide

Situated on over 25 acres of prime land, this amazing property presents a lifestyle opportunity that many can only dream of.

The modern home was built in 2011 and offers a wonderful place to call home, although it's possible to spend much time enjoying the outdoors.

The running creek, three dams and flat prime grazing pasture is breathtakingly beautiful.

Currently there are seven electric fenced paddocks, a small dairy, cattle yard, expansive garaging with bathroom facilities, and an impressive original apple shed used for storage, but also waiting for the next shin-dig.

The value here is in the land itself.

You could keep it all or there is a possibility to subdivide (STCA) and sell some of the land.

An exceedingly rare and unique opportunity awaits those seeking to purchase a modern country home situated on one of the most magnificent parcels of land in the Huon Valley.

Just a 45-minute drive to Hobart, 30 minutes to Kingston and all of the conveniences of Huonville, including shops and cafes are 15 minutes away.

New constables join Tasmania Police ranks

Tasmania Police has celebrated the largest ever Accelerated Training Program graduation with 17 new constables joining the ranks and starting their careers dedicated to keeping Tasmanians safe, including two new officers to be stationed at Kingston.

The five women and 12 men Graduates underwent a rigorous 12-week Accelerated Training Program, which was developed in 2018 to formalise entry into Tasmania Police for applicants who are current or ex-police officers from Australian Policing jurisdictions or from New Zealand Police.

"I would like to congratulate all the graduating officers and wish them well as they embark on a rewarding career serving the Tasmanian community," said Liberal MP, Jacqui Petrusma.

Along with the two at Kingston, the new officers will be stationed across the state, with three in Burnie, three in Devonport, one at George Town, two at Launceston, four at Glenorchy and two at Bridgewater.

Tasmania Police is highly regarded and respected within our community, with officers playing a significant role supporting Tasmanians in their time of need.

Strong culture, strong youth

The South East Tasmanian Aboriginal Corporation (SETAC) was among 25 recipients of the State Government's Healthy Tasmania grants.

SETAC was awarded $87,450 towards its Strong Culture, Strong Youth program, which promotes healthy eating, physical activity, reducing smoking, positive mental health and wellbeing in the Aboriginal community across Kingborough and the Huon Valley.

Minister for Mental Health and Wellbeing, Jeremy Rockliff MP said the grants were a positive way to support local initiatives.

"The best way to support Tasmanians to be healthy and active is through grassroots initiatives in their own communities and locals know best what their communities need," commented Minister Rockliff.

SETAC was among 15 organisations to receive one of the larger grants on offer, which covered projects and programs between $30,000 and $200,000.

Other recipients active in the Kingborough area included the Red Cross, Bicycle Network Tasmania and Council on the Ageing (TAS) Inc.

There were also 10 small grants of up to $30,000 awarded.

More information and a full list of grant recipients is available at www.health.tas.gov.au/healthytasmaniafund

Antarctic lake lost

Scientists in Australia and the United States have reported the sudden loss of a large ice-covered lake in eastern Antarctica, which held more water than Sydney Harbour.

A media release from the Australian Antarctic Program Partnership (AAPP) on June 24 stated the event, detailed in a paper just published in the journal Geophysical Research Letters, occurred during the winter of 2019 and was noticed in satellite images the following summer by Dr Roland Warner at the University of Tasmania.

Dr Warner said that the event, which occurred on the Amery Ice Shelf, was most likely caused by a process known as 'hydrofracturing'.

"We believe a large crack opened briefly in the floating ice shelf and drained the entire lake into the ocean within three days," Dr Warner said.

"The lake held more water than Sydney Harbour and the flow into the ocean beneath would have been like the flow over Niagara Falls, so it would have been an impressive sight."

According to the AAPP, hydrofracture occurs when liquid water, which is denser than ice, exerts sufficient extra pressure on cracks in ice shelves to open them right through to the ocean below.

"Multiple hydrofractures have been implicated in the collapse of smaller ice shelves in the Antarctic Peninsula, where plentiful melt-water forms on the surface during summer," noted the AAPP.

"It is rare to see hydrofracture through ice as thick as the 1400 metres on Amery Ice Shelf, and in the middle of winter."

Squash Open displays Tasmania's best

The 2021 Intuit Technologies Kingborough Squash Open was held over the weekend June 5 and 6, attracting players from throughout the state to the Kingborough Sports Centre.

Eight of Tasmania's top 20 players took part in the competition which saw three separate divisions and an age range from early teens to players in their 70's.

Division 3 saw a youthful final with Monty Kupsch from the Eastside Club overcoming Tom Saddler, also from Eastside in three tight games, 17-15, 15-4, 16-14.

Division 2 also saw a changing of the guard with a 13-year-old trumping some very experienced players to take the title.

Jarrold Atkins from Deloraine took on Laughlin Noble from Eastside 13-15, 16-14, 15-10, 15-9.

In the Open Division, the top 4 seeds all made it to the semi-finals.

Maggy Marshall from Eastside prevailed over Kingborough's top ranked player Morgan McGuire to take 3rd place 7-11, 11-3, 11-8, 6-11, 11-4 in a topsy turvy five set encounter.

The final came down to the number 1 seed Jamie Pattison and number 2 seed Ben Hudson, both from Eastside, who are also ranked number 2 and 3 in Tasmania battle it out for the main prize.

At the end of another five-set encounter, 18-year-old Ben Hudson came out on top for his first senior tournament win.

It was Jamie's 2nd runner up result in the Kingborough Open.

Kingborough Squash Open winners Maggy Marshall, placing third, runner up Jamie Pattison, and champion Ben Hudson presented by Tim Melsom, Intuit Technologies Group Services Manager. (PS)

Supporting shed connections

Men's Sheds across Kingborough are invited to apply for funding as part of the newest round of the National Men's Shed Development Programme (NSDP).

Round 22 of the NSDP will provide funding across a range of areas including health, shed improvements and equipment.

The grants can offer financial support across the following three funding categories.

- Health, wellbeing and events, $8000 maximum
- Shed improvements, $8000 maximum
- Equipment, $5000 maximum

The Federal Government has also announced work will soon begin on the $1.5 million Regional Coordinators for Men's Sheds Initiative, aimed at assisting Men's Sheds to connect with local health services and promote health events for their members.

Associations will be funded to introduce regional coordinators.

According to Senator Eric Abetz, since 2013, the Federal Government has provided $6.4 million to support Men's Sheds across Australia.

"Now more than ever, Sheds offer men and women a critical avenue for social support and engagement," said Senator Abetz.

"They are friendly and inclusive settings where people can meet to work with tools and equipment, or just spend time together, to support each other's mental and physical good health.

"To stay healthy, it is important to do regular activities with the people around us and our local Men's Sheds are a wonderful outlet for the community to get together and be active and at the same time do some good with the many community projects they are involved in.

"In many parts of Tasmania, local Men's Sheds are fast becoming one of the most important regional organisations, one where members make connections and serve their community."

Applications for the current funding round of the NSDP close on July 26.

Willie Wonker raided by Oaktree bowlers

The Tuesday Fours competition resumed for Week 10 after last week's mid roster break, in the Donald Hazell Indoor Centre at the Kingborough Bowls and Community Club, with ladder leaders Team Cawthorn again winning.

After being in front most of the game the Sandy Bay based team of Michael Gallen, Miranda Wood, Pat Balcolme and John McRoberts (playing as Team Monk) caught up with 21 all on the 17th end.

On the 18th and final end of the game, Team Cawthorn (on the day Kerrie Lane, Judy Traill, Stuart Traill and skip Conrad Westhead) scored a five, won the end and kept their winning streak intact.

Biggest winner with an overall win of 19 shots was Team (Pam) Rosevear, the line-up being Lorraine Walker, Frances Phillips, Regina Hayes and Di Spooner, defeating Team Hickey 29-10.

Team Baker also had a good day, accounting for Team Bridge by 17.

With losses incurred, Team Mus and Chaffey changed the leaderboard, Mus dropping from 5th to 6th and Chaffey dropping out to be replaced in 5th by Harra's Harem.

They had a solid 14 shot win over Team McLroy.

The leaderboard at the conclusion of play from top to bottom was Cawthorn, Baker, Newbold, Hinkley, Harra's Harem and Mus.

Results were Kosi defeated Morgan 23-11, Newbold defeated Mus 21-14, Cawthorn defeated Monk 26-21, Hinkley defeated Schooling 19-14, Harra's Harem defeated McLroy 25-11, Rosevear defeated Hickey 29-10, Baker defeated Bridge 30-13 and Hemmings defeated Chaffey 22-13.

The Wednesday night Fours Competition in the Donald Hazell Indoor Centre saw a couple of remarkably interesting results and again a shuffle of the top three placings on the competition ladder.

Allen Sculthorpe's team came up against the Sandy Bay Boomers, who were on the bottom of the ladder.

The Boomers matured in their game and downed Sculthorpe 21-11, toppling from top of the ladder back into 2nd place on 25 points being plus 61 shots up.

The other team which had also only won one game in the series, The Oaktree Raiders plundered the Willie Wonkers by a similar margin, winning 21-10.

This turnaround win did not have any bearing on the top three on the ladder.

The South Africans gain top place on the ladder after they overran Titan Sylvia by a massive 33-6.

The South Africans are on 27 points with an outstanding plus 165 shots up.

The Mark Burgess Seagulls flew over the Cherry Pickers, destroying the crop 31-4.

After last week's loss, The Dynamics came back strongly washing the floor with the Scrubbers, defeating them 27-7.

Even though they only defeated the Claremont Monties by six shots with 19-13, The Royal Hobart Dodgers slipped into 3rd place on the ladder, now on 24 points with a good plus 110 shots up.

The Pumpkin Patch are also on 24 points, plus 81 shots up, after they put the Leftovers away 24-17.

Better Performance lost for the second week in a row when they were lopped down by the Geeveston Woodcutters 19-13.
