Discussing crime rates in Kingston

Kingston's Ann Osbourne recently shared concerns over the crime rate in Kingston over the past months with the Kingborough Chronicle.

Ms Osbourne posed the question: Why is the Kingston Police Station not on a 24-hour shift basis?

"This region is the fastest growing area in Tasmania, although classified as a suburb and not a city which provides a reason for having a 'country station' instead of a fully manned station 24 hours a day," Ms Osbourne said.

A number of burglaries in Blackmans Bay took place from May 5 to May 8.

Property stolen included money, wallets, handbags, laptops and jewellery.

The Tasmania Police posted on their website requesting members of the public to submit any information or to report suspicious behaviour.

On May 8 as well, three youths rummaged through the St Vincent's donations.

Ms Osbourne said had the police station been manned a quick phone call and hopefully immediate response could have resulted in the apprehension of the three youths.

"The current level of crime and offenders not being apprehended indicates lack of police presence in Kingborough and is unacceptable," said Ms Osbourne.

"Due to the increase of recruits being trained at the Academy it is requested that more police presence is provided to Kingborough, both car drive pasts and walking patrols."

The Kingborough Chronicle reached out to a representative of the Kingston Police for response.

"Kingborough is actively policed through day and afternoon shifts and an on-call roster," said Commander Jason Elmer of the Southern District.

"This includes 24-hour response from Hobart Police Station, as well as other police units such as road policing, criminal investigation, and other uniformed divisions.

"The Kingborough region is serviced by an Inspector and includes stations at Kingston, Woodbridge and Alonnah.

"Staff at Kingston Police Station has nearly doubled over the past 10 years from 12 in 2012 to 23 in 2023.

"Crime rates do fluctuate due to criminal group trends and the activities of a small number of high-volume offenders, but what's important to remember is that the overall crime rate over the past 18 years has decreased significantly.

"Our frontline officers are advising that the level of youth offending, particularly in the Southern District, has increased, and there are ongoing challenges in dealing with these offenders.

"These concerns are being reiterated through our discussions with key stakeholders, including local businesses and local councils, including in the Kingborough area.

"We need the community's help to get the message to those people that choose to do the wrong thing - anti-social and unlawful behaviours will not be tolerated as everyone has the right to be safe in our community.

"If you see unlawful or anti-social behaviour, please report it to police at the time to allow us to investigate promptly."

Liberals are in the minority

The Tasmanian Liberals now lead a minority government following Bass MP Lara Alexander and Lyons MP John Tucker resigning from the Liberal Party to sit as independents instead.

Ms Alexander and Mr Tucker cited the anticipated Macquarie Point Stadium as a factor in their decision.

The proposed stadium has been a point of contention with the Federal Budget committing $240 million to the Macquarie Point urban renewal redevelopment announced last week.

Labor holds nine seats, the Greens hold two and there are now three independents.

"I am obviously disappointed, but this is their decision," Premier Jeremy Rockliff said.

"We will continue getting on with the job of building a strong economy and a safe, caring community."

"Our absolute focus remains on getting things done and delivering the things Tasmanians care about," said Deputy Premier Michael Ferguson.

State Parliament next sits on Tuesday, May 23.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Tasmania is not leading the nation in what matters

Dear Editor,

You might have heard recently about the latest 'State of the States' report from an outfit called CommSec that ranks Australian states by some questionable growth measures such as economic growth (Gross State Product), population growth and investment, among others.

The ABC news website's headline said that Tasmania was again Australia's "best-performing" economy.

Well, that depends on what you measure.

What is good for CommSec's bottom line is not necessarily good for ordinary Tasmanians.

CommSec is a business selling finance and brokerage services yet the ABC seemingly regurgitated its media release as if CommSec is some kind of independent, scientific authority.

There is a lot of data one could choose to evaluate a state's economic performance, but ideology rather than objectivity is typically the guiding principle.

A useful evaluation would include data on general wellbeing; the state of the natural environment; inequality; private-sector debt; the housing crisis and homelessness; the health crisis; corruption; human rights; and general sustainability.

Put another way, we should ask if the costs of growth are greater than the benefits - producing uneconomic growth - but if you don't ask you'll never know.

Costs seem mostly ignored in the CommSec ranking of what matters.

The ABC report, as usual, had no critique of mainstream economics and its growth obsession despite the vast amount of 'post-growth' scholarship that not only questions the validity of mainstream economics but warns of a looming global collapse and mass suffering.

This scholarship says that degrowth will happen whether we like it or not, not least because of a shortage of energy, but also because of a shortage of resources in general as we rapidly convert them into waste.

Growth economics has given us a climate catastrophe (and broader environmental crises) as well as inadequate climate 'solutions'.

It is regarded by its critics as a heads-in-the-sand pseudo-science that rewards those who are compliant and punishes dissent.

Rather than offering refutations to its critics, mainstream economics mostly ignores them.

Opponents say it is barely tethered to the real world, existing in artificial computer models where starting assumptions are less important than finding an answer that conforms to ideology.

There are economic textbooks from top academic publishing houses that are highly critical of mainstream economics but the ABC (and others) act as if they don't exist.

That is misleading.

The most recent figures show that Tasmania has an unemployment rate of 3.8 per cent and an underemployment rate of 7.6 per cent, giving a labour underutilisation rate of 11.4 per cent, which is the worst in Australia.

Tasmania is also the worst state, or one of the worst, in respect to homelessness and rental stress - the annual Anglicare Rental Affordability Snapshot makes for grim reading.

The Tasmanian State of the Environment report, supposedly published every five years, was last sighted in 2009.

It was due in 2014 and again in 2019 (and of course next year) but is now seemingly as endangered as the Tasmanian Tiger.

A healthy natural environment - sometimes called natural capital - is the ultimate source of all wealth and wellbeing, yet we continue to destroy it in the name of growth.

The most recent federal State of the Environment report (2021) identified both economic growth and population growth as key drivers of environmental harm. It appears the experts are yet again being ignored.

The CommSec view of the world - devoid of an understanding of the natural sciences - can be contrasted with recent speeches from the President of Ireland, such as his April 28 speech, where he lambasts mainstream economics.

It would be nice if the ABC reported it.

Taroona park decades in the making

Kingborough Council Deputy Mayor Clare Glade-Wright welcomed the official opening of Louisa Hinsby Park on Thursday, May 11.

"This is a great day to see all the hard work by the community come to fruition here in Taroona," Cr Glade-Wright said.

"The land was originally donated to the Taroona Progress Society by Louisa Hinsby in the 1930s.

"It was then gifted to Kingborough Council who have been working with community members to fulfill Louisa's wishes.

"Louisa wanted this piece of land to become a children's playground, it is fantastic to see such a beautiful park now here for all to enjoy.

"All the park features have been developed in consultation with the community and TCA.

"Council has installed a picnic shelter with seating, created a pathway network throughout the park, established a wooden entrance and gate frontage as well a slide and swing.

"The extensive history of the park has been captured in a wonderful storyboard display at the park entrance.

"From the initial consultation to the development of the project plans, the community has been the driving force behind all the great facilities now available.

"Council is extremely appreciative of the effort contributed by the Taroona Community Association (TCA) and other local groups for this project," Cr Glade-Wright said.

Federal Budget housing impact

Federal Treasurer Jim Chalmers delivered the 2023/2024 Federal Budget last week.

In response to cost-of-living pressures faced by many Australians, the Federal Budget is committing a 15 per cent increase in Commonwealth Rent Assistance and an extra $31 a fortnight for people renting in the private market and community housing, among other changes.

The Kingborough Chronicle reached out to the Tenants' Union of Tasmania, a not-for-profit organisation that offers tenancy advice and support, for their thoughts on these changes.

"We welcome the Federal Government's commitment to increasing the maximum rate of rent assistance by $31 per fortnight," said Principal Solicitor of the Tenants' Union of Tasmania Benedict Bartl.

"The increase will provide cost-of-living relief for Tasmanian renters in the private rental market.

"But rents in the private rental market have increased by between $40-$150 per week across the Kingborough Council over the last two years."

According to realestate.com.au the median rent for a three-bedroom house in Kingston has increased by $80/week, $150/week in Taroona and $40/week in Blackmans Bay.

The median rent for two-bedroom units in Kingston and Blackmans Bay have both gone up $70/week.

The latest CoreLogic Quarterly Rental Report shows Tasmania recorded one of the lowest 12-month rental increases of all the states and territories.

The data from March 31, 2023 shows a 4.7 per cent change in rent in Tasmania in the last 12 months compared to Perth, which saw the biggest difference at 12.6 per cent.

"We know that increasing land and housing supply is the best way to ease housing and rental pressures which is why we are funding the most ambitious social and affordable housing plan in Tasmanian history," said Minister for State Development, Construction and Housing Guy Barnett.

"While these figures are pleasing, we know that increased supply is the answer and will continue working to relieve the pressures on the Tasmanian rental market.

"Our $1.5 billion plan will deliver 10,000 new affordable homes and units by 2032 to meet the diverse housing needs of Tasmanians, including youth, the elderly, those living with a disability, men, women and families."

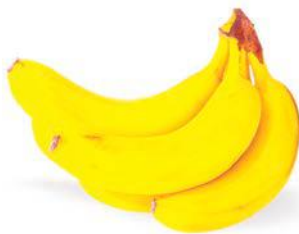

Tenants' Union of Tasmania's Benedict Bartl said we need the State Government to regulate rent increases as is already the case in Canberra.

In Canberra, rents can only be increased by Consumer Price Index + 10 per cent.

Whilst the CoreLogic Quarterly Report showed Canberra had the least change in rent over 12 months at 0.3 per cent, its median rent is one of the highest of the states and territories at $674/week.

In Tasmania, there is no limit to how much rent can be increased, although the rent can only be increased after the tenant has received at least 60 days' notice.

Best wishes for Wanda

Wanda Vasant has been a member of the Snug community for the past 30 years, owning and running the Snug Post Office.

Wanda recently semi-retired and has since picked up a couple of days' work at another local post office down the Channel.

The local Snug community was sad to see her go. "As a newcomer to the area I found the real charm of visiting the post office," said a community member. "Life's rich tapestry unfolded with Wanda's daughter's wedding, beautiful photographs of her children's weddings and births of grandchildren shared among friends and grandchildren popping in to visit in the post office."

Many residents commented that Wanda was always obliging and efficient. She played a pivotal role in the community and always stopped for a chat while walking her dog.

The Snug community say thank you for all that Wanda has done.

Celebrating volunteers with Kingston Park parkrun

National Volunteer Week is Australia's largest annual celebration of volunteering, taking place from May 15-21.

This year's theme is The Change Makers, recognising the contribution of volunteers around the country and encouraging others to consider volunteering.

Kingston Park parkrun, which takes place every Saturday at 9.00am at Kingston Park, has been a volunteering success story since it launched on August 21, 2019.

During that time, 238 different people have volunteered at Kingston Park parkrun, carrying out a combined total of 1289 different volunteer roles.

The volunteers have supported 2879 (over 300 on one Saturday recently) people to complete the five kilometre course on 17,598 occasions.

Volunteer Event Director at Kingston Park parkrun Matthew Roadnight said "Everyone in the community is invited to give parkrun volunteering a try".

"parkrun is all about having fun in a relaxed and welcoming environment.

"All the volunteer roles are super simple and there are a wide variety of opportunities, from welcoming first timers to marshalling on the course to handing out finish tokens as people finish the 5k.

"We even have volunteers during the week, for example who coordinate our volunteer roster and post on our social media channels.

"Our volunteer roster is never full and there is a role to suit everyone!"

Kingston Park parkrun is one of 470 parkruns across Australia, with more than 143,000 different people volunteering at the free weekly events since the country's first parkrun in 2011.

A recent national survey of almost 38,000 Australian parkrunners revealed that people who volunteer experience significant health and wellbeing benefits.

99 per cent reported that they volunteer to feel a sense of purpose, while 93 per cent said it makes them feel part of their community.

If you are interested in volunteering, you can email the event at kingstonpark@parkrun.com, message them through the Kingston Park parkrun Facebook page, or simply come along on a Saturday morning.

Kingston Park parkrun has had 238 different volunteers since it launched in 2019. (PS)

Reduce headaches

Spinal Health Week 2023 (May 22-28) is the Australian Chiropractors Association (ACA) national campaign dedicated to improving the spinal health of all Australians.

Spinal Health Week 2023 is focusing on the impact headaches have on Australians while providing solutions to headache pain so sufferers can take back control of their health and wellbeing.

Migraine and tension-type headaches are the most prevalent headache disorders, both with disabling potential having huge impact on public health.

More than 7 million Australians suffer from debilitating tension headaches and more than 4.9 million suffering chronic migraines.

However, the real cost to headache sufferers is immeasurable.

Every day, headaches impact the lives of more than 46 per cent of Australians, causing debilitating pain and robbing sufferers of productive time at work, study, relaxation, social activities, and precious time with children, family and friends.

"The connection between spinal health conditions (especially of the neck) and headaches are well recognised in research," said Dr Stephen Crean of Kingston Chiropractic.

"It's vital that headache sufferers have their spine examined and, if appropriate, seek early, effective drug-free chiropractic care.

"Along with some simple lifestyle changes, this can go a long way to relieve pain, reduce the incidence of headache and migraine and help people take back control of their life."

Studies have shown that university-trained chiropractors provide reliable, low risk, effective treatment for the three most common types of headaches - tension and cervicogenic (neck-related) headaches and migraines.

Pain medications (prescription and over the counter) may provide temporary relief from headache, but it's often a 'Band-Aid' solution that treats the symptoms, not the cause.

Kingston Chiropractic Centre's ACA accredited chiropractors are trained to identify the causes of headaches and provide specialised low-risk, effective drug-free treatment.

From May 22 to 28 their healthcare professionals will be providing free headache-neck checks.

Alex being checked by Kingston Chiropractics' Dr Stephen Crean. (PS)

The first opportunity has come, since COVID announced its presence, for members of the Kingston Uniting Church to fundraise for The Hobart City Mission's call for help for the homeless and those in financial stress. A white elephant stall of donated goods will all be for sale at 42 Jindabyne Road on Saturday, May 20 from 9am to 12.30pm. (PS)

Reflecting on a night in a cage

Former Kingborough Senior Citizen of the Year Jude Lennox, 90-year-old Marie and her daughter Fee, Team Tassie, took part in the Night in a Cage fundraiser for Free the Bears on April 29.

A staggering $6200 has been raised so far, leaving the Tassie girls in second place overall, which included the UK and the US this time.

The three participants, who either slept in dog crates or make-shift cages, all felt it was a very sobering experience of relative discomfort for one night whilst the bears endure much worse.

Fabulous and fun family home

Fun for the family and with a fabulous location boasting three living zones.

The generous 205m2 home comprises formal and informal living zones with an open-plan kitchen and dining room that flows to the huge covered patio. A roomy lounge room and second dining room extend to a massive timber sundeck. The sunny main bedroom has a walk-in robe and is adjacent to the two-way bathroom. There are three more good-sized bedrooms, laundry and powder room on the same level. The rumpus or fifth bedroom is located on the lower level with bathroom and access to the lift. A double carport and handy storage room are located adjacent to the rumpus room. Solar panels and ducted ceiling heat are great additions to this home. The internal spiral staircase is currently not in use but could be reinstated if required. Enjoy hours relaxing with your favourite book and a glass of wine in the sunny private yard. Raised garden beds, compost bins and multiple garden sheds will please the avid gardener. This property is situated in a sought after locale right on the bus stop, close to sandy beaches and restaurants. Shops, banks, doctors, both primary and high schools are all within a short distance. Hobart CBD and Salamanca are within a 20 minute scenic drive. If you're looking for a family home jam-packed with extras then come and have a look.

Short film festival in Kingborough

Kingborough is hosting the GRiT short film festival, made by some of Tasmania's best award-winning filmmakers for the Tasmanian community.

Kingborough Deputy Mayor Clare Glade-Wright said the films told unique stories of courage and resilience shown by everyday Tasmanians.

"The festival will feature 11 short documentaries, dramas and comedies," Cr Glade-Wright said.

"Each film will open up conversations and deeper discussions around some of the issues that impact Tasmanians.

"Some of the films deal with confronting subjects such as anxiety, life-limiting illness, suicide and depression.

"This is why there will be a counsellor available should any of the films raise concerns for anyone there on the night."

The films will be screening on Saturday, May 20 from 5pm at the Kingborough Community Hub.

Award-winning Kingborough director Lara van Raay said her film Grey Power highlighted how many fantastic older people were standing up for serious causes and putting themselves on the line.

"This film is the tip of the iceberg highlighting the wonderful older people dedicated to making this world a better place," Ms van Raay said.

"My film is a homage to them, for having the courage and conviction to step outside your comfort zone and take action, in the face of anxiety, depression and guilt."

Extensions completed on Tinderbox Hills Track

Extensions to the Tinderbox Hills Track have been completed from Estuary Drive to Mt Louis Road, creating better access for walkers and mountain bikers.

Kingborough Deputy Mayor Clare Glade-Wright said Kingborough Council has been liaising with private landowners over many years to formally extend this track for public recreational use.

"The extended track now continues through the Thinking Frog Private Reserve and the Tasmanian Land Conservancy's Tinderbox Hills Reserve to Mt Louis Road," said Cr Glade-Wright.

"In providing access along the track, we have focused on minimising any impact on the diverse and vulnerable blue gum dry forest and woodland community which is listed as a threatened vegetation community in Tasmania.

"Users must stay on the main marked track at all times due to the covenant obligations of the private landholders and the sensitive nature values including forty spotted pardalote and eastern barred bandicoots.

"The track is 4.5 km return from Estuary Drive to Mt Louis Road and has several steep sections with loose rocks.

"The track also has fabulous views from the ridgeline across to Storm Bay and North West Bay."

Former Tasmanian Senator Eric Abetz presenting the book Roy Ernest Stanton written by Roy's son, Harley to Channel Museum President Judi Castles. Roy was inducted into the Fruitgrowers' Hall of Fame and was a Kingborough Councillor for seven years. Erica Abetz said "Having grown up in Margate and recalling the days of the Carbide Works, the orchards and the berry fruits together with all the family names, it was an enthralling read". (PS)

TSL licenses ending

The AFL has recently announced the decision to award an AFL license to Tasmania.

Over the last 12 months discussions have been ongoing with Tasmanian State League (TSL) clubs over the status of their current licence agreements.

It has been determined the TSL licenses will not be extended beyond the end of the 2024 season.

“Whilst we acknowledge there is some ambiguity around what the structure of football in Tasmania looks like in the latter half of this decade, our position as a club remains unchanged,” said the Kingborough Tigers Club statement.

“We strive to play at the highest level available, providing programs, pathways and opportunities that attract high-calibre players and people to our club where our pursuit of premiership success continues relentlessly.

“As a club, we look forward to being a part of whatever comes next and writing the next chapter in both Tiger and Tasmanian football history.”

Making your legal wishes known with Public Trustee

May 15-21 is Law Week and the Public Trustee is urging Tasmanians to consider the Big Three - making your financial, medical, and legal wishes known.

Public Trustee CEO Todd Kennedy said Law Week is an important opportunity to start a conversation with the community about planning for the future.

An estate plan typically includes an Enduring Power of Attorney (to make financial decisions), an Enduring Guardianship (to make medical or personal decisions), and a will to distribute your estate when you pass away. These are separate documents, each covering a distinct and important aspect of your care and estate.

"Having a will and estate plan is like having a road map for providing protection and support for yourself and your loved ones if something ever happens to you," said Mr Kennedy.

"If you do not have estate planning documents, the Tasmanian Civil and Administration Tribunal (TASCAT) may need to appoint someone to help you make medical or financial decisions if you lose decision-making capacity due to an accident or illness.

"TASCAT can appoint a loved one to support you.

"If there is no-one willing or able to assist you or where there are conflicts of interest, the Public Trustee can be appointed to support financial decision-making or the Public Guardian to support medical or personal decision-making.

"If you pass away without a will, your deceased estate will be distributed according to the Tasmanian Intestacy Act 2010.

"Your loved ones may need to apply to the Supreme Court of Tasmania for a Grant of Letters of Administration to distribute the estate.

"This can be a difficult process to coordinate and may not necessarily reflect your wishes.

"It can also cause additional emotional and financial

Public Trustee are offering an information session on May 19 to discuss estate planning and answer questions. (P3) distress for your family and loved ones during an already challenging time.

"As part of the Law Week program, I am travelling around the state, discussing how important it is to make a will and estate plan to provide clear instructions to manage your legal, medical, and financial affairs.

"The Public Trustee will hold an information session in Hobart on May 19 to discuss estate planning and answer questions.

"If people can't make one of the sessions, they can always call us to make an appointment to discuss the Big Three and how we can help them plan for their future.

"Alternatively, there is a presentation online on our website."

The Public Trustee can prepare both a will and Enduring Power of Attorney documents from $140 for a single person or $210 for a couple and if you are a pensioner or senior's cardholder, they can prepare these documents for free if the Public Trustee is appointed as executor or attorney.

The Public Trustee can also prepare Enduring Guardianship documents from $140 for a single person or $210 for a couple.

- Find out how to use the free library legal resources at the Tasmanian Andrew Inglis Clark Law Library using an online guide.
- Learn about the Family Violence Migration service offered by the Tasmanian Refugee Legal Service on its newest podcast.

- Delve into a series of podcasts from the women's legal service offering insights into the difficulties and inequalities women face in legal proceedings and which act as a guide if you find yourself having to navigate your way through the complexities of the family law system, presented by Penny Terry.

We are adding events right up until Law Week so keep an eye on our website: www.lawweektas.com.au

The Legal Profession Board of Tasmania is proud to present Law Week to the community.

High-quality legal services from Advocate Lawyers

Tasmanian Law Firm Advocate Lawyers has been named the Best Family and Estate Law Firm in Tasmania at the prestigious APAC Insider Australian Enterprise Awards 2023.

The award is a testament to the firm's commitment to providing high-quality legal services to clients in the region.

Led by Principal Kelly Dewey, Advocate Lawyers is dedicated to supporting clients in their legal matters, particularly in the areas of family law, property, estate planning and administration, employment law and commercial law.

"Legal services are so important to the community and it's important to find a legal representative that you can communicate with easily.
